New Traffic Ordinance Is Passed by Council

DRASTIC CHANGES TO GO IN EFFECT HERE ON APRIL 1

Jitney Drivers Will Be Compelled to Furnish $5,000 Surety Bonds to Operate on Streets.

SKATING AMENDMENT
GOES TO COMMITTEE

New List of Non-Parking Areas Is Voted—Harsher Punishment for Traffic Violators.

City council at its regular session
Monday afternoon unanimously adopted, without modification, an ordinance providing a new set of traffic regulations for Atlanta which contained many drastic changes over present traffic laws. The new regulations after receiving Mayor Sims' approval will become effective April 1, according to members of the special traffic committee.

At its same session council voted to refer to the ordinance committee a resolution offered by Alderman Jesse W. Armistead providing for repeal of the present ordinance prohibiting the use of sidewalks in the city for roller skating purposes, and to allow children this privilege.

Other important measures acted upon included passage of an ordinance requiring taxicab and jitney drivers to file an indemnity bond of $5,000 with the city before permits are issued to them to operate; rejection of a resolution by Alderman Armistead to allow the local committee on devastated France to conduct a tag day on the streets on March 27, and granting of a petition for a pool room to be located at 80 South Forsyth street.

The new traffic regulations which were compiled by a special traffic committee headed by Councilman James L. Wells, were voluminous in detail, the principal changes being a stricter schedule of punishments for violators, non-parking of automobiles and vehicles on certain streets, limiting of parking privileges on others, and elimination of right and left hand turns at certain principal street intersections. A clause included in the new regulations prohibits parking of any vehicles on any of the downtown viaducts.

Drastic Penalties.
Under the section relating to assessment of fines and punishment against violators of traffic laws, the new regulations provide heavy cash penalties and stockade sentences for persons convicted on a third offense, or more, of speeding, reckless driving, or passing a standing street car.

ASK ASSISTANCE IN LIQUIDATING AMERICAN FLEET

All Interests Identified

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, March 19.—All interests identified with the American merchant marine are invited today by the shipping board to assist in the formulation of a policy which will make possible "the liquidation of the government fleet and the taking over by private interests of such routes as show prospects of becoming self-sustaining."

Commissioner Lissner, chairman of the board's committee on policy, addressed identical letters to the American Steamship Owners' association, the United States Ship Operators association, and the Council of American a committee to meet with that of the board in Washington next week "to present and discuss the views" of their organizations.

Replies Are Asked.
The invitation further requested that each group reply in writing to the following questions which, it was understood, indicate the basis on which the new policy will be constructed:
"In your opinion could buyers be found for shipping board vessels who would give a guarantee to maintain guarantee expressed willingness to sell the ships at less than the world market price for similar tonnage?"

Georgia Widows Draw Pensions For War in 1812

Last Soldier of Struggle, on Pension List, Died 18 Years Ago.

Constitution Bureau.
Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, March 19.—(By Constitution Bureau.)—Records of the department of interior show that four Georgians are included in the list of 41 pensioners who are receiving pensions from the United States government as widows of soldiers of the war of 1812 notwithstanding the fact that one hundred and eleven years have elapsed since the close of that conflict. The statistics have just been compiled by the bureau of pensions of the department.

The Georgia beneficiaries are as follows:
Cornelia H. Clifton, age 82 years,
Route 4, Americus, widow of Thomas Clifton, private, Captain John Fields company, Virginia militia; Lydia A.
Saville, 82 years old, Route 2, Glennville, widow of James Smylie, who was a private in Captain Robert Quartermaster's Georgia militia; Elmina
Wood, age 81, Route 21, Windsor, widow of John L. Wood, private in Captain Isiah Alford's company, Georgia militia; and Julia Ann Smith, age 81, now at Wadley, Ala., but who is the widow of James L. Smith, corporal in Captain J. Merrivether's company, Georgia militia.

There are no longer any soldiers who actually fought in the war of 1812 on the pension rolls, the last one being Hiram Cronk, who died in Ala.
N. Y., in 1905, having attained the age of 105 years. The oldest of the 41 widows now drawing a pension is Mahalia Huff, residing on rural route
2, Louisiana, Ky., who is 104 years old.

All told approximately 35,000 widows of soldiers of the war of 1812 were granted service pensions, the high water mark being reached in 1870 when there were 18,177 war of 1812 widows on the pension rolls.

ATLEE POMERENE SEEN AS POSSIBLE DEMOCRATIC PICK

Announcement Harding Will Be in Race Expected to Improve Chances of Former Senator.

COX WILL BE POWER
IN NEXT CONVENTION

Judge Cordell Hull Has Been Put Forward as Candidate by the Tennessee Legislature.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
Washington, March 19.—Timely use of the pulpit has revived the presidential boom of Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, and brought back into the democratic race the man, until his defeat for re-election as United States senator last November, was conceded to have the best chance of being nominated by his party in 1924.

Announcement of President Harding intends to seek a second term is expected to improve Pomerene's chances, for, with the renomination of the president, there is a natural advantage for the democrats in nominating an Ohioan also.

Until the rejuvenation of Pomerene's boom, Ohio had only two favorable candidates for the democratic nomination—James M. Cox, the 1920 candidate, and John H. Clarke, former justice of the United States supreme court.

See Disadvantages.
Pomerene's friends, however, see disadvantages in both of his Ohio rivals, and are now willing among democratic politicians promoting the stock of their favorite. For the moment, they are trying to show that Pomerene suffered only a trick defeat, and not a real one, when Simon D. Fess, his republican opponent, was elected for the senate last fall. Pomer-ene lost by only 50,000 votes out of a total of 1,500,000, a fractional margin which doesn't mean much, his friends explain. Furthermore, they say, Pomerene's defeat can be attributed to republican leaders of the Anti-Saloon league who rallied the church vote against him in the closing week of the campaign. They recognize, however, that Pomerene had offended railroad workers by his support of the Eck-Cummings act and by his victorious anti-strike utterances. But as between him and Harding, labor would vote the democratic ticket, anyway, being opposed to the administration's railroad policy, it is insisted.

The retiring Ohio senator had a large following in his party and was regarded as the logical man to oppose Harding in 1924 but upon his defeat last November he was temporarily regarded as unavailable especially after he joined a prominent Cleveland law firm.

George White, who as democratic national chairman, managed the Cox campaign.

Atlanta Postal Service Reduced To Save Money

After dismissing 20 supernumeraries and curtailing the mail delivery in both business and residence districts as a means of reducing expenses, local postoffice officials were called in conference by Postmaster E. K. Large late Monday to devise ways and means

Failure of congress to make suffithe department begins June 1, and until that date the efficiency of the postoffice department throughout the country will be seriously injured, it was stated.

Old Home of Henry Grady PROGRESS DESTROYS ANOTHER LANDMARK Razed for Business Block

One-time home of Henry W. Grady on Spring street, near Baker, which is being razed to be supplanted by a business structure.

BY LOY WARWICK, JR.
Another of Atlanta's old familiar sights hallowed by tradition and vivid historical interest must make way for commercial progress to go marching on to the tune of rapping hammer and humming saw.

Business buildings are being erected on sites of once fine residences. Those streets which were once quiet lanes shaded by kindly trees and bordered with restful quiet homes have since been transformed by the magic of a city's progress to busy bustling thoroughfares.

Latest Landmark to Go.
The old familiar sight alluded to in the above paragraph is a weather-beaten, pitifully faded old bungalow that housed one of the greatest men ever to tread Georgia soil. One who will always be remembered and mourned by Georgians and one to whom the whole country has paid tribute of American history—Henry Woodfin Grady.

That historic old house, partly destroyed, sits on Spring street, one door from Baker street. Carpenters are busily at work laying it to the ground to provide room for a commercial structure.

Soon after Henry Grady was married he came to Atlanta from Rome.
He built this little home in the earliest part of his life.

HUGHES WILL NOT REVEAL CONTENTS OF GERMAN NOTE

State Department Will Take No Action on Mem-

GERMANY IS ANXIOUS

Note Furnished Washing-

Washington, March 19.—Contents of the memorandum delivered to Secretary Hughes Friday by Counsellor Dieckhoff, of the German embassy, which is said to have given Germany's position on the question of reparations, will remain secret so far as the state department is concerned.

Decision not to make the memorandum public or to add to the brief statement of the department Saturday relative to receipt of the communication was made known today on receipt of press advices from Berlin that the German foreign office was willing to have the Washington government make the statement public or make its text known to Premier Poincare. In reference to the latter suggestion it was said that it was decried that M. Poincare should know what had been stated to the Washington and London governments, that information could be furnished by the Berlin charge in Paris.

Officials of the French embassy had received no instructions to make inquiry at the state department regarding the German memorandum, and it was stated officially at the embassy that no memorandum reviewing the French position with refer-government. Embassy spokesmen

NEW BOARD READY FOR TARIFF PROBE

Commission Will Determine Whether the Rates on Seventeen Commodities Are Equitable.

Washington, March 19.—Formal announcement was made tonight by the tariff commission that it soon would start its first investigation under flexible provisions of the new tariff act, to determine whether the rates on seventeen commodities are equitable. Chairman Marvin stated it was the commission's intent to begin work immediately in a preliminary way looking to a sweeping study of production costs and other facts.

The investigation will be limited to rates against which complaints have been filed and the decision to proceed with the inquiries does not, according to Mr. Marvin, constitute a declaration of the commission's policy or program of action under the flexible provisions. Announcement of the investigations was held up temporarily pending instructions from President Harding as to his interpretation of the new law's flexible sections.

17 Rates Affected.

The rates coming within the scope of the investigation affect the following articles: Sugar, cotton, warp knit fabric, cotton gloves made of warp knit fabric, cotton hosiery for infants, pig iron, oxalic acid, diethyl barbituric acid and derivatives thereof, barium dioxide, casein, logwood extract, potassium chloride, sodium nitrate, mirror plates, Swiss pattern files, paint brush handles, wall pockets and artificial or ornamental fruits, vegetables, grains, leaves, flowers and stems or parts thereof.

No official statement was made as to whether the complaints sought increases or decreases in the rates, but it was learned that about two-thirds of the requests for revision were for modification upward. The others sought decreases in the rates, chief among them being the complaint

Claim Lou Acted 'Don Juan' Role On Stage and Off

Stage, Seashore and Ghetto
rar's Mate.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
New York, March 19.—Lou Tellegen, actor, who is being sued for divorce by Geraldine Farrar, former Metropolitan opera star, was described today as a "Don Juan" of stage, seashore and ghetto, by witnesses testifying for the divorce before Referee
Thomas B. Mahoney.

These witnesses named two "strikingly beautiful" young women as co-respondents. One was Miss Lorna Ambler, an Australian actress. The other was referred to only as "Miss L," an American actress who played in the same company with Tellegen in 1921.

A third woman, said to be known in San Francisco as Bessie Clifford, was named in the complaint but no mention was made of her today.

Tell of Month of Bliss.

Two of the witnesses, W. F. Beers and Louis Malthaner, owners of bungalows on Long Beach, described a "month of bliss" spent in July, 1921, by Tellegen and Miss Ambler in a cottage facing the sea.

Mr. Beers said he rented a bungal-ow to a man named Rankin, said to be Tellegen's secretary. Rankin and his wife spent several days in a bungal-ow before Tellegen and the young woman arrived. Mr. Beers said he didn't pay much attention to the occupants but that he knew they lived there together.

Malthaner declared he didn't know who Tellegen was even after he had been told his name, but that he talked with him on occasions. Tellegen and the girl, he said, made daily excusions on the water. Tellegen always left the cottage first and went to the dock and the girl would follow by another route. Most times they were in bathing suits.

Once, Malthaner testified, he was helping repair a motor at a neighbor's shack and Tellegen happened by.
They invited him to have a bottle of beer. While he was there the girl with a heavy sack of groceries over her shoulder came up.

Carries Heavy Sack.

"Oh Lou," she said, according to Malthaner, "this is so heavy I don't think I can carry it any further."
"Oh, yes, Babe, you can carry it all right. Run along now. There's

PROBABLE AMOUNT OF CROP DAMAGE IS UNDETERMINED

Orchard Men Throw Protecting Smudges Over Peach Trees to Keep Cold Air From Buds.

MERCURY TO FALL
BELOW 12 DEGREES

Freeze Is Predicted for Atlanta Again Tonight, With Milder Weather Probable Tomorrow.

With the thermometer slated to drop to 12 degrees above zero—said to be the lowest mark ever recorded in this section at this time of the year—early this morning, peach growers in middle Georgia kept smudges firing glowing in their orchards throughout the night in an effort to keep damage from the frigid wave at a minimum.

In response to cold wave warnings flushed to the fruit belt in middle Georgia—where trees are almost in full bloom, thousands of gallons of crude oil were transported to big peach centers and men were recruited from many walks of life to feed the protecting smudge flames.

Reports Monday were conflicting, and conclusions were uncertain. The most reasonable estimate of damages to result from the frigid weather, however, seems to resolve itself into this situation:

The north Georgia peach crop, which is only in partial bloom, will be only slightly damaged unless the cold weather continues to blast the upland orchards.

In middle Georgia, where the trees have reached a stage of almost full bloom under the influence of the balmy weather preceding the frigid wave, damage will in all probability be heavy. That fact seems to be universally conceded by crop authorities.

Some took the extreme view that the 1923 peach crop would be practically wiped out, while others regarded the situation in a more hopeful light and pointed out instances where the peach harvest—apparently doomed by descent of cold weather—prove in the end to be an abundant one.

Trees in middle Georgia, it is declared, are in splendid condition of cultivation and are better prepared this year to withstand cold than ever before in the fruit history of Georgia.

Fort Valley Hopeful.

Information secured by The Constitution by long distance telephone from Fort Valley near midnight Monday night was to the effect that the situation was being closely watched and that no tendency to discouragement was evident among orchardists in that section. The report was optimistic on its face.

On the other hand, from North Georgia came a telegram from Summersville, Chatahoo county, stated that it was estimated that fifty per cent of the peach crop in that county had been killed. The portion killed, it stated, was the crop that had been in bloom for several days, while part the crop in bud had not been se-severely damaged, it was thought. The telegram stated that the temperature at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon was 26 degrees above zero.

Little Warmer Today.

Fair and slightly warmer for today was predicted by C. F. von Hermetz, forecaster, with a moderate freeze for tonight and sharper rise in the mercury for Wednesday. The coldest weather for March 20 in the history of Atlanta, he stated, was 29 degrees, in 1885. If the weather reached the expected temperature by this morning, it will be the coldest this year, he said.

J. G. Carlisle, manager of the Georgia Fruit Growers' exchange, stated that the trees through the peach belt were in excellent condition to withstand the cold, due to the careful cultivation they had received this year.

Carlisle Optimistic.

In spite of the threatening weather, Monday afternoon, Mr. Carlisle was optimistic. "A friend of mine in the peach belt called me up a while ago and said that he had made a large crop of peaches in the summer from trees whose blossoms were sparkling with ice in the early spring," he said.

"A frost with freezing temperature would be more disastrous to ordinary trees," he said, "and if this wind continues blowing it is likely that the frost, if any, will not be so severe."

Brown Fears Damage.

The sudden cold wave probably worked havoc with Georgia's fruit crop, according to J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture. Any estimate as to the amount of loss can not be given out as yet, however, said Mr. Brown, because the length of the cold spell will have a lot to do with the extent of the damage.

"Peaches may be utterly ruined for the year," he said. "Practically all trees were in bloom and this form of cold, a sudden, dry cold wave, is the worst possible for the peach tree."

"If the temperature stays down as it is now (late Monday evening) for many hours, I very much fear there won't be any peaches to amount to anything in Georgia, this year," he continued.

Mr. Brown said that in a dry freeze such as this, the using of smudges in the orchards was of no benefit and the only thing the peach growers could do was to sit and watch the freeze kill their crop. The fact that the drop in the temperature came earlier than the weather bureau had predicted, at noon instead of Tuesday morning, made it still harder to say what the extent of the damage will be.

Cotton May Be Hurt.

Some cotton, also, will be damaged by the cold, he said. In some sections of south Georgia, said Mr. Brown, cotton is already showing above ground and this cotton, together with seed in the ground just on the point of germinating, will probably be badly damaged if the cold weather goes far south enough to reach the sections where it is planted.

Mr. Brown said there had not been a freeze of this nature at this time of the year for a number of years. He recalled that in 1902 or 1903 a bad freeze came in May which utterly destroyed the cotton crop for that year. There was no recovery at all that year.

SAPP WARNS OF DANGER.

Fort Valley, Ga., March 19.—(By the Associated Press.) "We are expecting a temperature as low as 25 degrees during the night," said O. I. Sapp, in charge of the government laboratory at Fort Valley. "If the temperature goes to 25 degrees there will be serious damage to peach trees that are in full bloom."

Mr. Sapp stated that the temperature in the orchards at Fort Valley, Marshallville, and as far south as Shellman, Ga., at 5:30 o'clock (central time) this afternoon was 33 degrees. "I have advised growers to start their smudges at once," said Mr. Sapp. "But the orchards are hard to reach, because of the heavy rains during the last few days. The growers also are unprepared for freezing weather. But throughout the belt, I have been informed, smudges were started early in the afternoon."

Is Critical Period.

"The prevailing wind is from the northwest and growers who are unable to get into their big orchards because of the mud, have built their smudges on the northwest side, so the smudge is carried over their trees. If these smudges are started, as many of them have been, before the freezing point is reached, temperatures can be kept from five to eight degrees higher than without the smudges. The temperature cannot be driven up, however, once that it goes down. It is a preventive measure."

"It is a critical period for the orchardists. The Hileys are in full bloom and will be in great danger. The Georgia Belles and Elbertas are not in what we call full bloom and will not be as susceptible to heavy damage as the Hileys. However, all are in danger."

Fruit growers throughout the peach belt, according to their reports to the government laboratory, where they sought information and advice, began to hire every one whom they could find to engage in the fight against the freeze, early in the afternoon.

Growers Unprepared.

Little crude oil is being used, for the growers are not prepared to use it. Instead of the oil, Mr. Sapp stated that they are following his advice in using sawdust, green pine and cottonseed hulls. The cottonseed hulls are being packed tightly into three-pound peach cans, then saturated with petroleum and placed through the orchards, wherever it is possible to place them, every forty or fifty trees. Saw dust or pine fires are being kindled every fifteenth or twentieth row in the big orchards, wherever possible. "These smudge fires must be kept all night," Mr. Sapp warned all growers.

In connection with the work of the government bureau, Mr. Sapp said that he had obtained the aid of the manager of the telephone exchange in telephoning instructions and information to all growers throughout the belt. Scores of other calls came direct to the government laboratory from excited growers.

Mr. Sapp said that many of the growers feared that the rains had interfered with pollination. He said that the rains had not damaged the crop pollination having taken place with the Hileys, and the other varieties are not far enough advanced to be damaged from the rain.

DAMAGE $37,500 AT ADAIRSVILLE.

Adairsville, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—It is estimated that half of the peach crop here is in full bloom and is valued at $75,000. The mercury here registers 22 degrees at 6 o'clock and it is thought that all full blooms are destroyed. This would amount to an approximate damage of $37,500.

25 PER CENT LOSS IN SUMTER.

Americus, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Though today's unexpected drop in temperature has created some alarm among Sumter county peach growers, it is generally believed here that the crop will not be damaged beyond 25 per cent. All of the trees in bloom will lose their fruit, however ice forms in the blossoms, but where this condition does not occur the peaches will not be seriously affected.

In some of the larger orchards smudge fires will be burned tonight in an effort to save the fruit while in others no precautions will be taken. Many growers had hands shaking their trees today in order to rid as many bloom cups as possible of water.

OLD MAN WINTER COMES BACK.

By RODNEY F. DUTCHER, United News Staff Correspondent. Chicago, March 19.—Somebody must have rekindled Old Man Winter. He's gone now—for good, the weather bureau says—but the middle-west, which has finished an unusually open winter with the three worst storms of the year within about a week, was still gasping with amazement as it dug and thawed itself out Monday night, at the old man's astonishing comeback.

Sunshine arrived in the central states during the afternoon, however, and helped in melting the big drifts of snow the old man had scattered in his last wild party.

In Chicago all March records since 1883 were broken by a zero temperature Monday, and the east and south were scheduled to share the frozen misery of the winterlands Monday night, with a frost expected to nip the toes of debutante bathing girls at Palm Beach, Fla. There is, after all, some justice.

Iowa and Wisconsin, which were still trying to dig trains out of snow-drifts, had earlier reported temperatures of from 10 to 20 below. Transportation remained crippled on the northerly transcontinental transportation systems, and wires stayed down in other hard-hit sections.

Three Deaths in Chicago.

Three deaths were reported in the Chicago district, traceable directly or indirectly to the blizzard and its following contingent cold-snap. Four deaths were also recorded in Colorado, where the blizzard landed in all its fury Saturday, in its course down from out of the far northwest. Texas, as far south as Galveston, is experiencing 32-degree weather, for the first time on record. As far south as southwestern Missouri, the thermometer, hauled zero, according to reports here.

Virtually all trains coming into Chicago were from 1 to 24 hours late. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Pacific limited was 24 hours behind, after being snowbound first in Iowa and then in Wisconsin. The Continental limited, Chicago & North-western encountered other drifts in Minnesota and puffed in some 13 hours late.

This storm was the third and worst of the past eight days. Last Sunday's gale took many lives, did much property damage, and impeded transportation and wire communication. A blast in midweek was nearly as bad. Now all the repairs of the previous damage have found their work gone for naught, their only encouragement being the weather bureau's prediction that Old Man Winter has done his stuff, and that spring is just around the corner. A general rise in temperature late in the day seemed to confirm this prediction.

REMOVAL OF JACKSON STATUE IS PROTESTED

Resolutions Rap People Who Are Too Artistic to Preserve History.

Nashville, Tenn., March 19.—Resolutions protesting against the removal of the equestrian statue of Andrew Jackson from Lafayette square in Washington, were adopted at a mass meeting of members of Nashville historical societies this afternoon. Copies will be sent to President Harding and the secretary of war.

"A people who are too artistic to preserve their history will not long have the virtue to create history worth preserving," the resolutions declare.

"When Andrew Jackson and his brave soldiers were fighting for the freedom of America, his eyes focused a different artistic view from those of the 'landscape experts' of today who are urging the removal of his equestrian statue from Lafayette square near the white house grounds." The resolutions continue. "At that time the British had burned the white house and torn down the American flag. And, as Jackson was one who restored the white house and its flag to the American people, we deem it most appropriate that his statue remain in the place accorded it by 1853, eight years after his death."

The meeting called by the Nashville Andrew Jackson society was attended by representatives of the following organizations:

Wells Raps France.

A lively discussion by Councilman James L. Wells ensued when the resolution of Alderman Armistead to allow the local committee on devastated France to conduct a tag day sale on March 27 next was presented. Councilman Wells declared he was unalterably opposed to granting the permit to raise funds for a nation which he declared was today maintaining the largest standing army in the world.

"Within 50 miles of Atlanta," declared Mr. Wells, "there are hundreds of children, barefooted, without clothing and blueback spellers, who need this money more than the people of France. A nation that can maintain an army of a million soldiers certainly ought to be able to take care of its poor and needy."

The resolution was defeated when it was put to a vote. The ordinance requiring all taxicab and jitney drivers to obtain a surety bond of $5,000 and file it with the city clerk received unanimous support. This measure was introduced by Councilman W. Garland Cooper and Councilman J. A. Beall. The object of the bond is to indemnify victims of accidents and damages incurred through carelessness of drivers.

Permit Pool Room.

By a vote of 17 to 14 the resolution offered by Alderman Armistead to deny issuance of a permit for operation of a pool room at 80 South Forsyth street, was defeated. Several members of council, including Alderman Armistead, Councilman J. J. Greer and Councilman L. J. Cassels, spoke against the operation of pool rooms in Atlanta.

A number of petitions, including one signed by President W. W. Gaines, of the board of education, and all other members of the board, urged council to repeal the ordinance prohibiting roller skating on the sidewalks, were referred to the ordinance committee along with the resolution offered by Alderman Armistead.

Alderman W. B. Hartsfield, chairman of the ordinance committee, announced Monday night that he had called a special meeting of the committee for 3 o'clock next Friday afternoon at which time the public would be extended an opportunity to be heard on the resolution.

STREET CAR KILLS BOY IN BRUNSWICK

Eight-Year-Old Stephen Allen Unable to Hear Approaching Car Because of Deafness.

Brunswick, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Stephen Allen, 8-year-old son of Mrs. Ben Franklin, was run over here this morning by a street car and died 30 minutes later.

The motorman of the street car stated he saw the little boy walking along the car tracks, but thought he would step aside before the car reached him. He says he applied the brakes when a short distance from the boy, but too late to prevent the fatal accident. The boy's body was badly mangled.

According to the mother, the little boy was deaf, and unable to hear the approaching car.

Rare Tapestries Are Turned Over To Rockefeller

Revenue Men Determine That Sale Was Consummated in London.

New York, March 19.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today gained possession of the six famous fifteenth century tapestries, "Hunting for the Unicorn," which he bought from Count Gabriel D. Larocheffoucauld at a price somewhere between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. The tapestries had been held up by customs authorities while the internal revenue department investigated to determine whether a tax could be collected from their American seller. They were released when the revenue men determined that the sale was consummated in London. Mr. Rockefeller had been exempted from a customs tax, there being no provision for duty on such treasures.

Mr. Rockefeller issued a statement today explaining the transaction: "I bought the tapestries in London," he said. "I was unable to make the purchase in this country because the seller refused to sell the tapestries here. The price that I offered to pay for the tapestries in this country was precisely the price that I paid for them when the sale was made in London. I in no way benefited, directly or indirectly, by the fact that the sale was made in London and not here."

"Whenever the sale was made, I should not have had any tax to pay in connection with the transaction, for being antiques the tapestries were entitled to be brought into this country free of customs duties, while the sale was subject to any income tax, that was a matter which concerned the seller alone."

"I should like also to make it clear that throughout the negotiations preceding the purchase of these tapestries, my representatives have informed the treasury officials of every step taken."

FREIGHT EMBARGO PLEA DISMISSED

Atlanta Merchants and Railroads Reach Agreement on Moving Freight Within City Limits.

Petition for an embargo on cross town freight movements, brought before the state public service commission by railroads running into Atlanta, was dismissed Monday by the commission, after both sides to the controversy had reached an agreement.

The proposal had been opposed by some of the Atlanta merchants. The railroads planned to withdraw their freight cars from the service of moving freight from one yard to another in the city system, in order that the cars might be used in the urgent work of transporting fertilizer and other materials for the farmers, before they plant their crops. The roads contended that the local freight movement could be handled just as well by auto trucks.

The opposing merchants and representatives of the roads met on Friday and discussed the matter, with the result, as reported to the commission Monday, that an agreement had been reached and it would not, therefore, be necessary for the commission to pass upon the embargo petition.

FORTUNE BLACKMAIL TRIAL DATE IS SET

Attorney to Face Women's Charges Before Judge Humphries Wednesday.

R. B. Fortune, Lawrenceville attorney under indictment in Fulton superior court on two charges of blackmail, will be tried on trial Wednesday before Judge John D. Humphries, according to announcement Monday.

In default of $2,000 bond, Attorney Fortune was confined at Fulton tower Monday night. When his case was recently called for trial his bond was forfeited by his failure to appear. His rearrest was ordered, and he was placed in Fulton tower Sunday.

The blackmail indictments were returned on complaint of Mrs. W. R. Holmes and Mrs. Irma McKown, two Atlanta women, who allege that he attempted to extort a fee from them by threatening to set them up and be prosecuted on charges of transporting whisky.

When the two women were arraigned in Lawrenceville last Tuesday on charges of prohibition violation said to have been preferred at the instance of Fortune, they were acquitted and the jury returning the verdict of acquittal cleared Fortune with malicious prosecution.

Attorney Len B. Guillebeau, counsel for the two women, will assist the solicitor's office in the prosecution of Fortune. During his ten years' practice it is the first case which Attorney Guillebeau has ever prosecuted in Fulton superior court.

Attorney Fortune is being set up and is another of the rigid measures being enforced here to prevent rabies.

Three Dates Are Set.

The steamship owners' committee was asked to come to Washington March 20, that of the operators March 21, and the shipbuilders March 22.

Mr. Lissner said advisory committees had been appointed within the board to which had been referred special phases of the general problem. Among these committees were the following:

On routes: J. R. Small, president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, the main function of the committee being "to make a survey of established lines and recommend such lines as it is essential to maintain and the type, size, speed and other requirements of vessels to be employed on such lines."

On finance: Colonel J. H. McIntosh, director of finance for the shipping board, the function of the committee being "to deal with the price features of ships, lines, and the nature and extent of the purchasers' guarantee for maintenance of service."

On law: S. H. F. Freund, general counsel for the board, for dealing with the legal details of the contracts to be entered into for sale of lines and maintenance of service.

morning it was understood that the chief executive would spend a portion of the day fishing for tarpon in the vicinity of Lake Worth Inlet. He was presented with a specially made tarpon rod while in Miami and it was assumed that he would try it out at his first opportunity. The golf "bugs" with the party were so sure that the president with former Director Dawes of the budget were to spend several hours fishing that they left the boat and motored back to Palm Beach where they could follow their bent.

The morning passed with the houseboat Pioneer steadily chugging along northward and the afternoon began with no order to stop for fishing. About 3 o'clock when the boat had arrived off this resort an order came to proceed to the Island Inn pier here and no sooner had the gang plank been lowered than the president walked down it, in his golfing togs. Then followed two rounds over the nine hole Island Inn course, which lies along the ocean side.

The Pioneer tonight was anchored off shore and tomorrow the cruise northward will be resumed with a stop made at Fort Pierce for golf, that is, unless the president feels more like fishing than he did today.

POMERENE IS SEEN AS DEMOCRATIC PICK

campaign, is said to be favorable to Pomerene, although he has not broken with the former candidate so far as is known.

Giving Recognition.

Party politicians are not putting all of their eggs in Pomerene's basket, however. They are merely giving recognition to the fact that a real political possibility has as many lives as a cat. It can be killed time and again and yet it always comes up for air when least expected, as William J. Bryan has so often demonstrated. Ohio politicians still recall when Warren G. Harding walked the streets of Marion disconsolate, regarding himself as dead politically because he was beaten for governor by Judson Harmon. After that experience, it took Harry M. Daugherty a long time to convince Harding that he could come back.

On this principle democrats are not dismissing James M. Cox from consideration merely because he was beaten in 1920. He will have a powerful delegation at the next convention. The three Ohio candidates may be expected to engage in a hot tussle for control of the state delegation.

Meanwhile Judge Cordell Hull

democratic national chairman, has been put forward as a candidate by the Tennessee legislature, which has adopted a resolution unanimously supporting him. Hull, however, refuses to listen to such appeals, explaining that his job is to organize the party machinery so that the nominee, whoever he may be, can be elected.

There is no shortage of presidential timber in the democratic party. It has Mr. Adlai Stevenson, John M. Ralston, Senator-elect from Indiana, John W. Davis, former ambassador to Great Britain, and even the old reliable William Jennings Bryan. Then there is also Henry Ford, who is expected to be a presidential candidate even if he has to organize a party of his own.

So easy to take care of fine Linoleum floors

THERE are hard ways to clean linoleum, and there is also an easy way to keep it in spick-and-span condition. Here are a few simple directions. Cut them out and keep them for reference:

When you wash linoleum

In the kitchen, pantry, and bathroom, where water is likely to be spilled, linoleum has to be washed frequently. Use warm, sudsy water and a good, mild soap like Ivory. Wash about a square yard at a time, rinse, and dry carefully.

Don't use alkaline soaps or scrubbing powders. They will harm any finely finished wood or linoleum. Don't allow water to stand around the edges or seams of the linoleum. Moisture may seep through and make the floor damp.

Varnish printed linoleum

If you have printed linoleum you can make the design wear longer by varnishing it. Wash your linoleum floor and then give it two coats of colorless, elastic, waterproof varnish. Give the varnish about twenty-four hours to dry before you walk on the floor. Renew the varnish once a year and the pattern will last indefinitely. And the fine, glossy varnished surface is easily wiped up as needed with a damp cloth.

Wax inlaid and plain linoleum

The easy way to take care of inlaid, plain, or Jaspé linoleum is to wax it. If you are getting new linoleum, wash it as soon as it is laid. Then give it two thin coats of a standard floor wax.

Rub the wax thoroughly into the linoleum, and polish with a weighted brush.

This smooth, polished surface is easy to keep looking its best. About all you need to do is go over it every day with a dry mop. At the doorways, and wherever the wear is heavy, you will have to renew the wax occasionally. You can take up muddy footprints with a damp cloth.

A corner of a living room with a floor of Armstrong's Jaspé Linoleum

Once or twice a year you may restore the wax coating completely. That is all the refinishing the floor ordinarily will require. Under such care the linoleum actually gets better-looking. Time gives it a rich, mellowed appearance. Remember, don't use the old-fashioned scrubbing-brushes and scouring-soaps on linoleum. It's a hard way to clean, and it isn't necessary. Waxing is the better way.

Write for free sample and booklet

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 24-page booklet, "New Floors for Old," containing a score of color-plates of distinctive designs that you can see at good stores—Jaspés, carpet inlaid, tile inlaid and printed patterns; also, information on laying linoleum and on how to care for your linoleum floors.

You can also buy Armstrong's Linoleum rugs in printed or inlaid patterns, in four sizes, from 6x9 feet to 9x12 feet.

Take the sample in your hands. Feel how warm, resilient, yet tough and durable good linoleum is

Linoleum permanently cemented in place requires no stretching or retinning. Such a floor is smooth and tight

STAREK TO MAKE SOUTHERN TOUR

During Trip, War Finance Corporation Official Will Confer With President on Next Race.

Washington, March 19.—Fred Starek, acting managing director of the War Finance Corporation, left Washington tonight for an inspection of the corporation's offices throughout the southern states. He will travel by rail and will visit the cotton, rice and cattle industries, and will explain to local officials the provisions of the new agricultural credit law.

During his trip Mr. Starek, who is a close friend of President Harding, will confer with the president in Florida. He was an active member of the Harding pre-convention organization in 1920 and it is considered likely that during the conference in Florida the prospects of the coming presidential campaign will be talked over.

Before his departure Mr. Starek arranged to use both army and navy airplanes in his trip westward from Florida. Special permission was given him for that purpose by Acting Secretaries Davis and Roosevelt.

"Marked for Death," Cries Young Woman, Fainting in Court

New York, March 19.—Crying that she was "marked for death" and that her circumstances were similar to those of Dorothy Keenan, slain artist's model, Mrs. Caroline Taylor, a fashionably dressed young woman, fainted today in Westside court.

Mrs. Taylor was arraigned on complaint of Romeo Forlini, who described a "night of terror" in the apartment of Mrs. Taylor. He said he had given her jewelry and other things worth $10,000 since he first met her last September.

On March 13, Forlini testified he visited Mrs. Taylor's apartment and was forcibly held there after he had announced he was going home. He said Mrs. Taylor threw acid on him, cut his clothing into shreds with a carving knife and held him through the night.

Addressing the magistrate, Mrs. Taylor said: "I am like Dorothy Keenan. If this man doesn't kill me, some friend of his will."

She swooned and fell to the floor, was carried to a bench and revived. The case was postponed until tomorrow.

CURZON WILL PRESIDE OVER NEAR EAST MEET

Allied Experts Will Not Conclude Deliberations Before Easter Holidays.

London, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The first session of the preliminary conference on the Near Eastern situation to be held at the British foreign office Wednesday will be presided over by Lord Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, after which the meetings will be conducted by the experts of Great Britain, France and Italy, the three powers party to the conference.

It is expected considerable difficulties will be encountered in dealing with the questions involved in the Turkish counter-proposals to the Lausanne draft treaty, but the tone of Ismet Pasha's covering letter, which is pointed to as evidencing the Kemalists' desire for peace, is a cause for optimism which appears to prevail in British circles. The allied experts are not expected to conclude their deliberations before the Easter holidays and thus the resumption of the Lausanne meeting will be postponed until early April.

Legislators Will Begin Probe Today Of Arkansas Strike

Harrison, Ark., March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Arkansas legislature's committee investigating the disorders along the Missouri and North Arkansas railway, which began shortly after the railroad brotherhoods voted to continue the strike on the railroad and culminated on January 16 with the lynching of E. C. Greer, striking railway employee, arrived in Harrison late today.

The committee completed hearing of the testimony of the striking railroad men and strikers and sympathizers in Little Rock last week. After dinner the committee met in brief session to outline plans for the hearing here and voted to begin hearing testimony at 9 o'clock tomorrow.

It was understood that the Harrison citizens would be heard first, to be followed by citizens from other towns along the railroad, many of whom had been named by striking railway men as members of the "citizens' committee," which directed the drive against the strikers.

Seven members of the "citizens' committee," which functioned as the governing body at Heber Springs, are here to testify before the committee. They are Mayor N. E. Vinson, County Judge Mansenga, T. M. Andrews, W. T. Huie, A. N. Hill, Ollie Baker and Joseph Taylor. Six other members of the Heber Springs committee are pledged to come to Harrison should the legislative committee request their testimony.

Chattanooga Seeking To Dismiss Georgia Case From U. S. Court

Washington, March 19.—The city of Chattanooga filed in the supreme court today a petition to dismiss the original proceeding brought against it by the state of Georgia.

As owner of the Western and Atlantic railroad, the state of Georgia asked the supreme court to restrain the city of Chattanooga from condemning for the purpose of cutting through an opening up streets certain of its property within the yards of the railroad in Chattanooga.

Chattanooga in its motion to dismiss the proceeding asserted that the supreme court was without jurisdiction to entertain the case because it was an action brought against the city as a private corporation and not in its sovereign capacity.

It is contended also among other grounds in support of its motion that the controversy is now in the state courts of Tennessee where Georgia will have all interests protected and that the supreme court is without power to enjoin the Tennessee courts from proceeding in the matter.

Church Members Leave Services To Destroy Still

Citizens, Indignant at Work of Moonshiners, Do Not Wait for Officers.

Rome, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) Indignant at the persistent and repeated efforts of whisky makers to operate stills in their community, about twenty citizens of the state line district, seventeen miles from Rome, raided a still there Sunday afternoon, without waiting for officers, according to a report which reached here this afternoon.

Singing was in progress at Prospect church, in that district, and when word was brought that a still was in operation in a patch of woods in a gorge near by, those present did not call for any assistance but went to the place in a body, tore down the still, poured out about a thousand gallons of beer and destroyed other still paraphernalia, but found no one at the still.

GOOD ROADS LEADERS WILL ATTEND MEETING

Many States, Including Georgia, Send Acceptance to Governor Pinchot.

Harrisburg, Pa., March 19.—Governor Pinchot has received acceptance from many states to his invitation to hold a conference here on March 23 and 24 of state highway officials. They include Virginia, Missouri, New York, Oklahoma, Maryland, Connecticut, Minnesota, Mississippi, Delaware, West Virginia, Iowa, Rhode Island, Georgia, Colorado, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Ohio.

The governor has received a letter from Governor Smith of New York, congratulating him upon his idea of a conference. "I am particularly impressed by your statement that 'no state builds roads for its citizens' sake, but for the sake of the nation as a whole. I agree with you that in the construction of roads all states should cooperate to aid each other.'"

Hearing Advanced On Par Clearance In Supreme Court

Appeals of So-Called Country Banks Now Set for April 23, Next.

Washington, March 19.—Appeals taken by so-called country banks in Georgia and North Carolina to test the validity of that part of the federal reserve act which requires federal reserve banks undertake to collect at par within their districts all checks deposited with them, whether drawn on member or non-member banks, were today advanced by the supreme court for hearing on April 23, next.

The decisions in the lower federal and state courts were adverse to the contentions of the banks that they could charge a small discount for cashing checks which their depositors had sent out of town. The cases were brought by the American Bank and Trust company and others from Georgia and by the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Monroe and others from North Carolina.

Marie Picard Dies In Savannah; Closes Sensational Case

Savannah, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—A pathetic, character undetermined, account inability to obtain history of case.

So closes the record in the pathetic case of Marie Picard, a little French woman, who came to Savannah more than a year ago and created several sensational stories without intending to be sensational.

Her death occurred in a local hospital two days ago. Mystery surrounded the occasion of her illness and the cause of her death. The finding announced today does not clear that mystery. Her landlady said she had complained of pain in her "heart," and said several of her people in France had heart trouble. The death certificate was confirmed by post-mortem examination.

Mrs. Picard created scenes on the crowded streets here, twice attacking a well-known young woman to whom a former soldier was paying attention. She claimed that the soldier had won her love in France and had obtained possession of a considerable fortune left her by her first husband. She came, she said, following him. She was soon sent to the city jail, where she worked in a mill at $2.50 a week. Her death closes the case in which the young soldiers the allegations of the little French widow.

She left no note to indicate suicide, and there is no evidence to suspect that she was given poison.

Last Chapter Written In Case of Kidnaping Of U. S. Girl's Suitor

Newark, N. J., March 19.—John F. Ellis, former private detective, who was accused of kidnaping Alex E. Robertson, a former gunner in the British royal artillery and suitor for the hand of Miss Mary Culbertson, daughter of former United States Senator Culbertson, of Texas, was freed by the court today.

The kidnaping indictment was dismissed when the court was told that Robertson had refused to testify against Ellis, declaring he wished to avoid the publicity which would attend a trial.

The indictment of Ellis was brought about by Robertson's charge that the former had forced him to leave his home in Bloomfield on the pretext that he was wanted in New York on a charge of stealing property of the British War Veterans' association. Instead of taking him to New York, however, Robertson charged, Ellis took him to Boston and tried to place him on a steamer bound for Buenos Aires.

COMMUNIST SECRETS ARE BARED IN COURT

Government Agent Tells of Attending Meetings Held by Defendants.

St. Joseph, Mich., March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Secrets of the organization of the communist convention held near here last August were revealed today in circuit court when K-97, department of justice agent, who attended the meeting as a delegate, took the stand as the state's star witness against William Z. Foster, charged with criminal syndicalism.

K-97 is Francis Morrow, of Camden, N. J. Communists knew him as Ashworth, and at the convention, where delegates used assumed names, he was called Day.

Morrow identified the delegate list of the convention, the program, and a number of other state exhibits.

He told how he was chosen a delegate in Philadelphia and Camden and how he left Philadelphia with Alexander Bail and John Gresinger, two other delegates, under instructions to accompany the two delegates to Cleveland. There they met Walter Bromberg and five other delegates and the party proceeded to Detroit, where five more joined them, one of whom had instructions to proceed to Grand Rapids. At Grand Rapids they got final orders to go to Bridgman, a small village half a mile from where the convention met. At Bridgman, Morrow said the delegates were registered.

The convention, the witness said, was opened by Jay Lovestone, of New York.

The convention elected Ben Gitlow, alias Lewy, of New York, who is in Sing Sing prison serving a sentence under the syndicalism laws of New York, as its chairman, and Edgar Owens, alias Jones, of Moline, Ill., secretary.

Foster, Morrow testified, was present under the alias of "Comrade Borden."

O. L. Smith, assistant attorney general of Michigan, tried twice to introduce the program and constitution of the communist party, which the witness had identified, but each time Judge Charles White sustained objections by Frank P. Walsh, chief of counsel for Foster, that the document had not yet been properly identified.

HOUSE OF DAVID EXPELS HANSELL AND HIS FAMILY

Grand Rapids, Mich., March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—John W. Hansell and his family were expelled from the Israelite House of David, recently clad and with only $100 and tickets to their former home, Nashville, Tenn., following a midnight conference at which he was charged with assault and his son was threatened with arrest, according to testimony given by Hansell in federal court here today in his suit against the colony for $80,000. The amount, the plaintiff contends, is the value of property turned over to the Benton Harbor cult when he became a member, and the value of his labor during membership.

Hansell declared John J. Sterling, at that time prosecuting attorney of Berrien county, attended the midnight meeting, and had a part in his expulsion.

Frightened by the charges against him, Hansell declared, he agreed to leave the colony, signing a release for himself and Mrs. Hansell, and leaving therefor $100 and the railroad tickets. Some of the clothing worn by the family at the time was offered as an exhibit to show the condition in which they departed December 28, 1920.

Hansell and his wife were the only witnesses called today. Questioning by his attorney disclosed some of the alleged beliefs of the colony. Benjamin Purnell, head of the cult, claimed to be the "younger brother of Jesus" and "number seven of the messenger angels," according to Hansell. The colony's teaching was accepted by members of the colony.

In reply to questions by their attorney both witnesses said they had no knowledge of immoral acts by Purnell.

Their property, they said, was turned over to the cult, along with their labor, "for the kingdom's sake." The "kingdom," they explained, was the alleged belief of the colony, Benjamin Purnell, head of the cult, claimed to be the "younger brother of Jesus" and "number seven of the messenger angels," according to Hansell. The colony's teaching was accepted by members of the colony.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.—(adv.)

The body of Lee S. McLendon, prominent Atlanta business man and former chief of detectives of the Macon force, who committed suicide Sunday at his home on Grady place, was sent to Perry Monday night for funeral and interment. Harry G. Poole had charge of arrangements. Despondency over ill health was the cause of his death, according to members of his family.

The SECURITY of A Nation-wide Service

ALL the average man sees of the telephone system is the telephone instrument. But looking past this simple device he will see millions of miles of wires and cables, thousands of buildings, intricate switchboards—an immense plant, serving the people day and night.

This great investment in physical property insures a high degree of safety for the stock of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the major part of whose earnings come from its holdings in the Bell Telephone System, which renders a nationwide service.

Partly because of this security, this stock has attracted more than 250,000 investors. It pays 9% and can be bought in the open market to yield approximately 7%.

Ask your banker, broker, or local Bell telephone business office about this stock as an investment.

Or write to the Bell Telephone Securities Company, Inc., 195 Broadway, New York.

Raleigh Hotel.
Washington, March 19.—(By Constitution Leased Wire.)—Major General C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance of the war department, handling the stocks of nitrate of soda, sold at Old Hickory, Tenn., today wrote the following letter to Senator William J. Harris, who has been urging special action to hurry up shipments to Georgia farmers.

Unseasonable Cold Spell
Must Be Met by Building Up Body—Tanlac Eliminates Many of the Poisons the Human System Is Heir to and Gets the Body Fit to Fight Off Disease.

Just as the people of Atlanta thought the winter was over and spring was here for a long stay the mercury took a decided drop and the city is experiencing the coldest weather of the year. spells probable colds or flu and they are prone to worry unduly.
Tanlac will help these people avoid the serious sickness that often come with an untimely cold spell. It is built up thousands of persons as it is a tonic that gets right to the base of troubles and corrects them speedily.

OCMULGEE RIVER IS RISING RAPIDLY

Residents of Lowlands of Macon Vacate Homes as Flood Stage of 21.5 Feet
Is Predicted.

Macon, Ga., March 19.—Residents in the lowlands of Macon began to vacate their homes late this afternoon, when the Ocmulgee river reached 19.6 feet at 3 p. m. It was still rising rapidly during the later hours of the afternoon, and the weather bureau predicted a flood stage of 21.5 feet by daybreak tomorrow morning.

Manufacturing plants along the river, below Macon, removed live stock and other property that was in danger. Brick manufacturing plants reported their pits flooded and all work at these plants was stopped early in the day.

The rain stopped during the afternoon, but heavy rains in the watershed north of here is sending a great volume of water down the Ocmulgee river.

The city park, where the Sparks circus is in winter quarters, appears to be in no danger. The levee has been strengthened and it is believed will protect all property there.

PAW PAW CALLED THE PERFECT DIGESTER

Scientist Explains Its Bracing Effect Upon the Whole System.

In condensed form the following is what Professor Willard H. Morse, M. D., F. R. S., a Fellow of the London Society of Science, wrote to Robert H. Hafford, an eminent therapist: "Munyon's Paw Paw is scientific in that it properly presents to the materia medica, to the medical profession, and to the sick and suffering the active principle of the fruit of the caribeana (Paw Paw) in its most eligible form.

"It accomplishes digestion surely and perfectly. It makes the most of the food. Makes the best of the food. Assures perfect assimilation. It perfects the several fluids that have to do with digestion and makes dyspepsia impossible.

"Munyon's Paw Paw disposes of the blood all faulty acids or poisons, because the blood made from the food treated by Paw Paw is a true vital fluid, which refuses to contain the acids, germs or poisonous taints, and as most diseases arise from impure blood, it makes all of them impossible.

If you are nervous, if you are weak, if you have indigestion in any form, if you have stomach trouble, if you cannot sleep, try Munyon's Paw Paw Tonic. It has stopped those conditions for thousands and many for you. It costs $1 per bottle and is for sale at the Jacobs' Pharmacy, 6-12 Marietta St., Munyon's Homeopathic Home Remedy Company, Scranton, Pa.,—

High Beer Price About to Wreck Peace of Britain

Bonar Law Seeks to Avoid End of His Tranquillity Period.

BY RALPH H. TURNER.
United News Staff Correspondent.
London, March 19.—Beer and tranquility—a queer combination, but a real one in the government of Mr. Bonar Law.

The connection between these apparently irreconcilable quantities will be made strikingly evident when Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, introduces the annual budget in the house of commons next month.

Mr. Bonar Law came into office on a policy of tranquility, now as famous a subject in England as the much-vaunted normalcy became in the United States.

Tranquility, just like normalcy, carried with it a strong promise of economy in public expenditure and a reduction in taxation. The conservative government's economy pledge will meet its first real test with the introduction of the budget.

Challenges Tranquility.
Now the six-penny glass of beer comes along and challenges tranquility. There is one item to which the ex-taxed Briton looks with more concern than any other in demanding that his burden be appreciably lightened.

That item is beer. It is food to the working man. It means more in his life than a reduction on the income tax, and the government has got to do something about it. Particularly has the chancellor Baldwin got to do something about it.

In demanding a reduction in taxation, the Englishman first demands a reduction in his beer tax. The tax on beer, recty, on the barrel has been increased 13 fold since before the war. Proletarian beer, mild ale as it is known in the trade, sells over the counter for six pence a pint—say 12 cents at normal rates of exchange. More than half of this sale price is tax.

Before the war, however, or about four cents, would buy the same quantity of beer—an infinitely superior beer, in fact, because any navy in a corner pub will tell you that the present-day beer is weak, insipid and shows signs of marked deterioration.

Explaining Relations.
And now to explain the fiscal relation between beer and the budget. It is expected that the budget will total between four and four and a half billions of dollars. Of this sum the margin for reduction of taxes is estimated at not more than $250,000,000.

Besides beer the public also asks relief in the entertainment industry, especially in the price of movies, in the income tax and the cost of food, but first comes beer.

It is agreed that the least reduction that could be made in the price of beer is a penny (one American cent) a pint. A reduction in the tax on the brewers equivalent to a penny per pint would cost the British treasury about $110,000,000 for the year. This is probably much more than Baldwin can afford under one heading. So what is he going to do, in the effort to harmonize beer and tranquility?

The suggestion is made that the chancellor will strike a bargain with the brewers. The latter will be asked to help reduce the cost of beer by reducing their own profits. It is stated that the large sums they have been making in recent years would enable them to do this without any undue strain. The entire burden of the beer cut would not fall upon the exchequer.

AUTREY IS FOUND WITH STOLEN DOPE AND SENT TO JAIL

Charged with possessing narcotics in violation of the federal law, C. M. Autrey, 28 Garrett street, and Ed Leonard were committed to Fulton tower Monday by United States Commissioner W. C. Carter, in default of $500 bond each.

Narcotics in the possession of Autrey were said to have been stolen in the recent burglary of the McKobers Drug company. Autrey declared he had purchased the drugs, knowing nothing of its being stolen, from Luther Gloer, who is held under $3,000 bond in connection with the burglary of the drug store.

Leonard, according to testimony, had a small quantity of "dope" which was not secured from the lot stolen from the drug establishment.

Alleged Secrets Of Klan Revealed In Chicago Hearing

Chicago, March 19.—H. K. Ramsey, of Atlanta, Ga., in a sensational affidavit of the Ku Klux Klan and Robert E. Shepard, treasurer of the American league and manager of "Tolerance," a publication opposed to the Klan, were the principal witnesses today at the hearing before the city civil service commission of charges filed against Otto Novotny, who with William Greene, was discharged from the city fire department for being a klansman.

Repartee between attorneys and witnesses kept the hearing room in an uproar most of the afternoon. Mr. Ramsey, submitted what, he said, was the official oath of the Klan, the prosecution having charged that a member of the Klan would be prohibited by the oath from revealing another member if he were guilty of any except treason, rape or malicious murder, these three being excepted in the oath.

Mr. Ramsey defined the Klan as a "patriotic organization" and declared a person can not join unless he believes in the Christian religion. Roman Catholics and Jews are not excluded, he said, adding that they precluded themselves. Negroes are excluded because the organization is Caucasian, he said.

Mr. Shepard testified that "Tolerance" hired several investigators to seek out the Klan membership and secrets. His investigators had been going to Klan meetings since last June, he said, and added that his publication had printed the names of over 2,000 klansmen. Shepard said he knew the signs, passwords, signals of distress and other secrets of the organization.

"Well, give the Klan signal of distress because they are going to need it," Attorney Patrick O'Donnell, of the prosecution, said.

Shepard placed the first finger of his right hand in the center of his forehead and drew it down over the right eye to the center of his right cheek. The hearing will be resumed tomorrow.

The Actors' Equity association, with headquarters in New York city, has proposed a plan to insure a standard forty-eight-hour week for motion picture actors.

HOLD COMMUNITY HOG SALE TODAY IN SARDIS

Spring Trading Is on Cash Basis, Making Rapid Return to Normalcy.

Sardis, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) Tuesday a co-operative hog and cattle sale will be held here under the auspices of the Sardis Community club. This is the first attempt by the citizens of Sardis to organize a community sale on a large scale. Under the direction of E. B. Gresham, county demonstration agent, the plans for the sale have been completed and the rules for grading the hogs have been outlined.

It is believed by those in charge that the sale will be an unprecedented success. The cattle raisers of this section are much in favor of the idea, in view of the fact that each man will receive the highest market price for his cattle. It is expected that a number of buyers will be on hand.

There seems to be no doubt in the minds of the citizens of this section concerning the progress which is being made toward normalcy, both in crops and in trade. The pick up in trade is, of course, the natural result of the increase in the price of cotton. But the return to cash trade is noticeable inasmuch as a short time ago, barely three years, nearly all the spring merchandise business of this section of Georgia was conducted on a credit basis.

In an interview today with J. A. Davis, of Sardis, prophesied a moderate and steady increase in prosperity in the near future.

"Although at the end of the season all the farmers still claim that they are in the same state of financial ruin," said Mr. Davis, "their scale of living each year improves gradually and they allow themselves more and more of the luxuries which for so long have been denied them by the financial depression."

"In spite of the fact that everyone claims to be broke," no matter whether the crop was large or small, I think this is merely a matter of form and as all the claimants seem to be able to disburse the cash for their purchases it seems to point to a small financial improvement."

REVIVAL CAMPAIGN Services Are Being Held in Cordele Church.

Cordele, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—The Methodist revival campaign was begun Sunday morning, services to continue through Easter. The opening sermon was preached by Rev. I. P. Tyson, presiding elder of the Cordele district, and at one time pastor of the Cordele church.

Barnesville Services.
Barnesville, Ga., March 19.—(Special.)—Rev. H. L. Edmondson, pastor of the First Methodist church here, is conducting a revival meeting this week, which will probably last through next week. He is assisted by his brother, Rev. Robert Edmondson, pastor of the Methodist church at West Point. Two services a day will be held and the meetings will be largely attended by the members of the Methodist church and by the citizens of the community.

Rev. Arthur Jackson, pastor of the First Baptist church, here, announced that he will begin a meeting the first Sunday in April and will be assisted by Rev. R. L. Bolton, pastor of the First Baptist church at Madison.

STATE HAS JUST BEGUN TO FIGHT, DECLARES COCO

Baton Rouge, La., March 19.—Attorney General A. W. Coco today reported personally to Governor Parker the result of the Morehouse parish grand jury's investigation into the activities of hooded bands in the parish. Neither the governor nor the attorney general would discuss their conference.

"The state has just begun to fight," said Coco. "Just what steps we will take we do not care to announce but you can say every resource at the command of the state will be used to see that justice is done."

The state conducted an open hearing at Bastrop, the Morehouse parish seat, in January and the attorney general appeared before the grand jury March 5, with the evidence obtained at the hearing. The grand jury examined 125 witnesses and on March 15 reported it had been unable to obtain sufficient evidence to warrant indictments.

Operations of masked men in the parish, which included floggings, and deportations, culminated August 21 in the abduction of Watt Daniel and F. F. Richard. Two mutilated bodies found in Lake Lafourche four months later were identified as those of the missing men.

Governor Parker and the attorney general charge that the Ku Klux Klan was responsible for the outrages.

clusive, F. Roger Miller, president of the organization, announced today. It was stated that Memphis had been chosen because of its central location in the South. Eleven other cities in Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas had petitioned for the convention, Mr. Miller said.

Chief among the matters which will be discussed at the convention of "City Builders" are the utilization of raw material in the manufacture of finished products, methods of scientific research in promoting industrial development, making southern opinion effective in national legislation, popularizing southern food products, national advertising of southern opportunities, the establishment of a southern school for secretaries and the development of a co-operative extension service for southern chambers of commerce.

Mr. Miller also stated that daily sessions will be devoted to the discussion of chamber of commerce methods, covering every phase of civic, commercial and industrial development, together with the various functions of professional technique in organization management, in short, a comprehensive short course for professional secretaries who desire to increase their efficiency as organization executives, according to the association president.

Convention Feature.
A feature of the convention will be an exhibition and demonstration of chamber of commerce forms, office systems and advertising literature to which every organization in the southern states will be invited to contribute selected specimens.

In connection with a southern products campaign, which is to be launched during 1932, the month for one day during the convention will embrace southern products exclusively.

"A special committee is now engaged in the compilation of a history of the chamber of commerce movement in the South," Mr. Miller declared. "Many of these city building organizations are from 50 to 100 years old and the earliest organizations of this type were formed soon after the American revolution."

"The movement originated in Europe in the early part of the eighteenth century, and was transplanted to America by the early colonists, who formed the New York Chamber of Commerce in 1768," he added.

Among the cities which have announced that they will hold for the 1932 convention are Norfolk, Va., St. Louis, Mo., Birmingham, Ala., Hot Springs, Ark. and Fort Worth, Texas.

"Another piece of property listed in this letter is the site on West Peachtree and Fifth streets, upon which the new Biltmore hotel is to be located. This property is assessed, according to the communication, at $800,000. With only a vacant lot at present upon which to make this assessment, I can not see how the assessors, if these figures are correct, could place an assessment of $800,000 on this property and place such a correspondingly low figure on the other hotels."

"My plan is to exercise the same basis of assessment on business property as on residential property and to appraise these assessments on the actual market value of the property instead of guess work appraisement."

Mayor Sime's position in adopting an equalization tax plan was heartily endorsed by Councilman C. D. Knight and other members of council.

With the question of providing additional funds immediately for public improvements confronting it, the finance committee is expected to take up the matter of raising more revenue from some other angle within the next few days.

routes in the residence districts will only receive one delivery daily, according to Postmaster Large. Hereafter a minimum of two deliveries daily has been in force.

"We are exhausting every possible means to avoid further curtailment of the service," Mr. Large stated Monday night. He said that he had conferred with supervisors of the Atlanta office before leaving his office for the day and had found where the services of four or five men could be dispensed with.

He made it plain that the department does not expect to render as efficient service as usual under its present circumstances.

A greater increase than was anticipated in the volume of business at the Atlanta office has caused the great shortage of funds, according to Mr. Large. He said that the receipts to date for this month show a tremendous increase over the same period in 1922.

With the increase in the volume of business the operating expenses increase in proportion, he explained.

HUGHES WILL NOT REVEAL MEMORANDUM

informed as to the French position. At the state department it was again emphasized that the German memorandum called for no action on the part of officials there.

Germany's Note.

Berlin, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Whether Germany's last memorandum on the Ruhr situation and the reparations question will prove a useful contribution to possible early endeavors through third parties to force a breach in the Franco-German impasse has so far brought out only a limited amount of speculative discussion in German political and financial circles.

The memorandum, delivered in Washington and London Friday while addressed to the American and British governments to inform them of the German view of the situation, was incidentally intended to be made available to France and Belgium through diplomatic channels, it was officially explained today. Official quarters declined to comment further except to declare that it was up to France to create an atmosphere which would be conducive to negotiations and that the memorandum could be in no wise regarded as a formal attempt to obtain the intervention of an Anglo-Saxon power in the Ruhr situation.

Foreign Minister Baron von Rosenburg has not suffered from lack of counsel, which is being showered on him from many quarters—semi-diplomatic and otherwise—a circumstance which is continually stimulating rumors of impending negotiations.

Parliamentary leaders continue to censure in the current interpretation of the government's position that no basis can exist until a tangible assurance is given Germany that the Ruhr will be definitely freed from military occupation the instant a new understanding with respect to reparations is reached.

On this point the government has the complete support of the reichstag.

MEMORANDUM SENT ALLIES.

Berlin, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—If France is sincerely desirous of appointing herself with the German official position in respect to the Ruhr case her ambassadors in Washington and London undoubtedly will be given the fullest opportunity to inform themselves of the contents of the informal memorandum voluntarily placed at the disposal of the United States and Great Britain by Germany last Friday.

It was stated here today. The German office, was declared at the foreign office, had the primary purpose of summing up the position previously affirmed by the Cuno government but incidentally of placing it at the disposal of such diplomatic channels as are easily accessible to France and Belgium.

The contents of the memorandum constitute no secret, it was explained, and the German government would not consider it a violation of confidence, it was unlimited, if either London or Washington made them accessible to Premier Poincare.

It also was officially stated that if the French government or its press should attempt to interpret the German step as a formal request to an Anglo-Saxon power for intervention in the Ruhr conflict, such a reading would be wholly unsupported by the nature and contents of the German communication.

It was announced in Washington Saturday that state department officials had received on Friday a statement of Germany's position with regard to reparations, but they said the information as delivered by counselors of the German embassy called for no action by the Washington government looking to mediation or intervention in the reparations dispute between Germany and France.

The information was characterized as a statement of Germany's position without any request for action by the United States, and officials said they would make no reply, nor would they call it to the attention of the French government.

445 Papers Suspended.

Coblenz, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Of the 1,450 newspapers published in the Rhineland and the Ruhr, 445 have been suppressed by the occupation authorities for periods varying from three days to several months, according to semi-official German figures. Suspensions of the Rhineland total 208.

Forty-three of the journals have more than once been forbidden to publish, while 122 newspapers printed outside of these areas have been denied the right to circulate in occupied territory.

Prison sentences running as high as 18 months and fines of as much as 1,000,000 marks have been imposed on 62 editors and 21 publishers. Eighteen editors and nine publishers have been deported with their families.

Letters Are Stopped.

Berlin, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—The minister of posts has ordered all letters addressed to the permit offices established by the French in Baden to be stopped. The Reichrat, or imperial council, has requested the government to seize on its entry into Germany any merchandise accompanied by French permits and to make the German merchants asking for these permits liable to fine and imprisonment.

Hostages Detained.

London, March 19.—The French authorities at Essen have detained 24 hostages a member of parliament, the district attorney and several bank directors following the killing of a French guard there yesterday, says a Berlin dispatch to The Central News.

Warned Against Loans.

Paris, March 19.—Americans are warned by Le Temps, French newspaper, against subscribing to the German loan of $50,000,000 which Farnson, Son & Co., are reported trying to place in New York.

Le Temps points out: "First—If the loan is guaranteed by the Reichsbank's gold deposits, subscribers will have no guarantee of repayment, because if the Reichsbank is a private institution as the Germans have often claimed, the German government has no right to hypothecate its reserves; while if the Reichsbank's gold is under disposition of the government, the allies will have first lien on its resources."

Second—"The loan is really an 'interior' one, wherefore, under the Versailles treaty all sums destined to be paid to subscribers can be seized for the reparations account."

"This information," Le Temps concludes, "probably was not included in the prospectus prepared at Berlin."

Watch Coal Loaded.

Essen, March 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—M. Letroquer, French minister of public works, who is on a visit to the Ruhr, watched with satisfaction today Polish and German workmen under the protection of French soldiers load cars of coke and coal for shipment to France.

M. Letroquer visited the mines and coke plants at Oberhausen, Westphalia and other points where properties have been taken over by the French.

The minister spent most of the day in proceeding from one mine to another, accompanied by General De-goutte. He inspected the mine shafts and pitheads and saw mountains of coal awaiting shipment; some of the dumps were two or three hundred feet high. When he returned here late in the afternoon he announced the Rhine-Herne canal, which had been obstructed twice by the Germans, was open for traffic.

"From now on coal and coke shipments will go forward without interruption," he said. "The railroad situation shows daily improvement; shipments by barges on the Rhine to Strasbourg are going ahead every day; the number of freight and passenger trains have increased from day to day, as the French and Belgians familiarize themselves with the 18,000 miles of road."

"The Germans will soon realize," continued M. Letroquer, "that we can overcome all the obstacles they have put in our way."

The minister will return to Paris tomorrow.

which asks a reduction in the duty on sugar.

The sugar rate appears to be the only one over which any lengthy fight was waged during congressional debate on the tariff bill, and the study of that rate, therefore, seems certain to lead to a wide inquiry. Most of the other rates, it was stated, are on articles not imported in such quantities as to indicate that a long-drawn-out investigation will follow.

100 Applications.

Comment was made in the formal statement on the number of applications, and their nature, which have reached the commission since the tariff law was enacted last September. More than one hundred applications for changes in rates and classifications have been received, in addition to many others, some of which, the commission observed, "reveal the fact that there was some misapprehension as to the purpose of the act and as to the powers conferred upon the president and the commission."

"In some cases," the statement said, "the relief sought came clearly under jurisdiction of the customs laws and not under the tariff commission."

"Other applications asked for changes which the commission is powerless to consider, for example, the changing of an article from the dutiable to the free list or vice versa."

CLAIM LOU ACTED "DON JUAN" ROLE

some chops in the box. Fix them for supper. I'll be over shortly."

Beers and Malthaner identified a photograph of Tellegen and the girl as the couple who spent the month at the Long Island resort and departed after Tellegen had received a letter from his wife's lawyers. They said the girl had a broad, affected English accent, pleasing to ear, and that she was a woman of culture.

Malthaner, incidentally, is a clerk in the office of the district counsel.

He testified he did not know anything about the divorce action until after

When Tellegen returned to New York, testimony showed, he was trailed by private detectives. In August Miss Angbler went to live with friends in a studio apartment on West Thirty-seventh street, Norman Fitzsimmons, detective, said he followed Tellegen to this house on numerous occasions and that she acted as the girl in the role. Invariably, he said, they embraced and then went for long walks, often into the ghetto on the lower east side, where they stopped in Italian restaurants for midnight suppers of spaghetti.

"They seemed very much taken with each other," he testified.

Spaghetti Feasts.
After these spaghetti feasts, the detective said, they would return to the Thirty-seventh street house and part in the vestibule after a prolonged forewell. Then Tellegen would go to his room in the Ritz-Carlton hotel.

In September, after the opening of "Don Juan," with Tellegen in the title role, the actor began dividing his attentions between Miss Angbler and "Miss L," according to Fitzsimmons.

Immediately after the performances he would take "Miss L" to her home in Riverside drive, spend a moment or two with her and then go down town to meet Miss Angbler.

One night in September, Fitzsimmons continued, he followed Tellegen and "Miss L" to a bench overlooking the river in a dark place on Riverside drive.

Newspaper Men Barred.
At this point the referee asked newspaper men to depart, as Samuel Untermyer, counsel for Miss Farrar, thought the testimony to come would be "unfit for their ears." After Fitzsimmons had left the stand, reporters returned.

The last witness for the plaintiff was Josephus Brandt, a negro elevator and switchboard operator at the house in which "Miss L" rented an apartment.

Brandt said he had seen Tellegen frequently with "Miss L." He appeared with her at the apartment house and at first did not go upstairs. Later he spent hours at a time in the young woman's room, Brandt said; and one Saturday stayed all night. The plaintiff's case was closed with Brandt's testimony.

Before Malthaner offered a post-nuptial agreement in order to give Arthur E. Schwartz, counsel for Tellegen, an opportunity to make an entry on the record.

Mr. Schwartz did not appear today and Miss Farrar's attorneys said they understood that no defense would be offered.

Certainly this will be an exceptionally busy week among the many members of The Constitution's Help-Yourself Club. The 50,000 Extra Vote Offer for $25 in subscription payments closes Saturday night, March 24, at 9 o'clock. The offer of the $1,020 Buick automobile offered as a Special Prize to the member turning in the greatest amount of subscription payments between the dates of March 12 and March 24 also will be brought to a close at this time.

The unusual liberality of this big double offer places every club member of The Constitution on an equal basis. Only the business turned in during this period will count on the winning of the special prize. The winning of this car in no way conflicts with the earning of the extra votes or the winning of one of the eight Capital Prizes or the prizes to be awarded in your district at the close of the campaign.

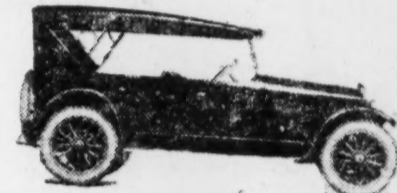

Remember that the extra vote offer now in force is positively the last extra vote offer of any kind to be made during the remaining days of the campaign. Subscriptions turned in during the last week will only bring in votes that the regular schedule calls for. NO EXTRA PRIZES OF ANY SORT WILL BE OFFERED DURING THE FINAL WEEK, EITHER—Therefore, each Club member should realize that it is up to them to get busy and stay busy every moment of this offer up to Saturday night, March 24, at 9 o'clock if they hope to win the Buick touring car offered as an additional prize. Also the fellow who makes the most of his or her opportunity during the next few days will have made a wonderful gain in the way of votes which will play the all important part in winning of the regular prizes at the close.

Important Notice to Club Members

Check over your remittance sheets very carefully before sending them in. See that you have the correct amount of money; see that you have the right number of votes; write plainly; do not hold back your remittances until you have a large amount—send them in as often as possible, as it takes some time to get the subscribers' names on our mailing list with proper credit.

Study the Second Payment Plan, as this is the rapid way to obtain votes.

ROSE L. MATTHEWS AT STATION WGM

Noted Atlanta Dramatic Soprano Will Be Assisted by Donald King, Tenor, at WGM Tonight.

Tonight's 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock program at WGM will present two of this station's exclusive and most popular radio entertainers, Mrs. Rose L. Matthews, dramatic soprano, and Donald H. King, robust tenor, will share honors in the late offering to listeners of America. Signor E. Volpi, sponsoring tonight's program, will play the piano accompaniment for his two widely known vocal pupils. The Constitution is fortunate in this able to present Mrs. Matthews on radio programs at WGM. Her wonderful voice has been heard by thousands throughout the nation and no station in the United States can offer exclusively a more gifted and popular artist than WGM's "queen of dramatic sopranos." Mrs. Matthews' voice is pure, clear, smooth and sympathetic, and she sings with extraordinary understanding. She has a wonderful future, critics agree, and yet with all her enviable successes as a vocalist and the admiration of countless song lovers of the nation, she is absolutely unpretentious. No singer ever graced the studio of this station who is more enthusiastically received by listeners than Mrs. Matthews. Her selections tonight will be those best adapted to her voice and will be wonderful treats.

Ably supporting Mrs. Matthews in the late broadcast tonight, fans will have an opportunity of again hearing Donald H. King, one of the south's best known robust tenors. His is a voice of exceptional range; pure, sweet and yet mellow. The flexibility of his voice and the ease with which he sings the most difficult numbers is little less than remarkable. Fans will be delighted to hear him again tonight.

New Jersey Fan.

Radio Station WGM: Gentlemen—I receive your programs regularly and I assure you I enjoy them very much.

Thank you, JOHN DEANE, Garfield, N. J.

Gifted Singer Will Be Heard At Early Hour

Miss Ruth Ramsey, Lyric Soprano, Will Supplement Accs.

An additional feature to Warner's Seven Aces on the 6 to 7 o'clock program tonight will be Miss Ruth Ramsey, gifted and charming young lyric soprano, who is quite well known to fans of Station WGM. Miss Ramsey will be heard in a number of popular song hits, being assisted by Miss Leila Powell, pianist.

Miss Ramsey possesses a voice of unusual beauty of tone and quality and her numbers will be enjoyable features of the early program today.

Miss Powell is a pianist who needs no introduction to WGM fans. She is an artist of marked ability and training who has pleased listeners to many programs from this station.

The Aces, The Constitution orchestra, will hold forth during the first 30 minutes, followed by vocal and piano solos by Miss Ramsey and Miss Powell.

PLAN TO TOUR RUSSIA HAS BEEN ABANDONED

Washington, March 19.—The tour of Russia, this month by a party of senators and representatives as guests of the Soviet government has been abandoned, Senator Ladd, republican, North Dakota, announced today.

Failure to receive an official invitation from the Soviet government to get together a congressional party were the reasons given. Senator Ladd, however, may take the trip alone.

Several weeks ago a proposal for the tour was made to Senator Ladd by New York representatives of the Soviet government. The senator began to arrange a party but several senators and representatives declined.

"Nearly Every Night."

Dear WGM: I am enjoying the programs of Station WGM nearly every night and must say that the signals are QSA and come in fine on a one-hub Reinartz tuner.

Yours truly,

Beethoven Opera Overture Given By Metropolitan

Risinger's Presentation of "Leonore" Broadcast by WGM.

Station WGM, The Atlanta Constitution, last evening at the opening of its 9:30 o'clock broadcast presented from the Metropolitan theater one of the best of the recent Bud E. Risinger overtures.

This week Mr. Risinger and his Metropolitan Symphony orchestra are presenting the "Leonore Overture," by Beethoven. It is taken from Beethoven's only operatic effort, "Fidelio," and is a beautifully composed number.

As this selection is handled by the Metropolitan Symphony orchestra, it is a masterpiece. All of the intricate and delicate passages are perfection.

Duo of Artists Entertain Fans Monday Night

Miss Frances Thebaut and Jimmy Finley Heard at WGM.

Two popular WGM artists supplemented Warner's Seven Aces on the early program from Station WGM last night. Miss Frances Thebaut, lyric soprano, and Jimmy Finley, baritone and pianist, contributed much to the enjoyable broadcast, offering vocal and piano solos.

Miss Thebaut's delightful voice was unusually good in "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" and other selections. She is very popular with listeners and her contributions to WGM programs are enthusiastically received.

Jimmy Finley is one of Station WGM's "favorites"—and one of the most popular entertainers on this station's staff of exclusive artists. He has a well trained and mellow baritone voice, and is one of Atlanta's best known pianists. He was heard in both vocal and piano selections last night.

These two popular young stars followed the Aces on the 6 to 7 o'clock program.

U. S. LAND BANK MORTGAGES NOT SUBJECT TO TAX

Washington, March 19.—States cannot tax mortgages held by federal land banks, the supreme court held today in a case brought by the federal land bank of New Orleans against Judge D. W. Crossland, of the probate court of Alabama.

The federal and state of New Orleans offered in recording a mortgage on lands situated in Montgomery, Ala., and paid the regular recording fee, but protested against an additional fee which was assessed under the state revenue act of 1919. The federal government contended the state law of 1919 was ineffective because states could not levy and collect taxes for revenue purposes on the business of the federal land bank. The state courts sustained the tax as lawful.

Edward Stettinirus, Banker, Doing Well After an Operation

New York, March 19.—Edward R. Stettinirus, of J. P. Morgan and company, was hurriedly operated on at Roosevelt hospital tonight for the removal of a deep-seated abdominal abscess.

The operation, which required 40 minutes, was pronounced successful, surgeons reporting the patient's condition favorable.

Mr. Stettinirus was stricken while spending a vacation with his family at Augusta, Ga., and hurried to town to consult his physicians. He arrived at 6:10 p. m. and was taken to the hospital at once.

ACES GET FRISKY ON EARLY PROGRAM

South's Famous Dance Orchestra "Busted Down" on Early Broadcast From Station WGM.

Giving their first program following the brilliant success they experienced at Keith's Lyric theater last year, Warner's Seven Aces, The Constitution orchestra, were as frisky as "four-year-olds" on the early program at Station WGM last night. To quote Bob Pittman, band leader of the aggregation "The Aces" "busted down."

All the nice things which theatergoers have said about the widely known Aces orchestra following the wonderful success they scored at the Lyric have not "turned their heads"—not a bit. All eight members of the outfit "blew" into the studio of WGM last night as nonchalantly as if they never played for Keith's in their life. They haven't swelled up at all—they're just the same old Aces, that's all.

It was grand to have them back on the job, too. Fans missed the early programs by the Aces during last week, and the boys are determined to make up for it by adding a few special numbers to the program each evening this week. Fine, eh?

Included in the list of orchestras last night, the Aces gave "Fate"—a brand-new, knock-out kind of musical arrangement, to which Byron Warner, director of the Aces, has added a few pet strokes. Byron just will change the music around to suit the Aces, you know. His arrangements give the Aces numbers that "Truly Warner" swing that everyone is talking about. Another excellent number was "Crying for You," given in the own incomparable Aces style. Other selections included, "When Hearts Were Young," "Pack Up Your Sins," "Burning Sands," "Some of These Days" and other popular dance hits.

The program was a very interesting and enjoyable one and Warner's Seven Aces, The Constitution's orchestra, will be back again today on the 6 to 7 o'clock offering.

LATE BROADCAST OFFERED STARS

Mrs. William Norwood Taylor, Atlanta Teacher of Piano, Sponsored 9:30 to 10:30 WGM Program.

Last night's 9:30 to 10:30 program was a musical offering sponsored by Mrs. William Norwood Taylor, popular and widely known Atlanta teacher of piano, assisted by James Weinberg, violinist; Miss Bertie Robertson and Miss Pearl Miskin, piano pupils of Mrs. Taylor.

The opening number, "Wildcat Flight," a duet by Mrs. Taylor and Miss Robertson, was most enjoyable and no doubt greatly appreciated by critical listeners. Miss Miskin was heard in a duet with Mrs. Taylor, also, giving "Love's Awakening."

James Weinberg, 11-year-old violinist, interspersed the piano numbers with "Soldiers' March" in which he displayed marked training and ability. Mrs. Taylor's solo included "Etude" by Lasker, "Volga Boatman's Song," "Balladine" and other beautiful numbers. She is an artist of exceptional ability and gift which was evidenced in each of her contributions to the splendid late program.

Miss Miskin and Miss Robertson, pupils of Mrs. Taylor, displayed every evidence of careful training and their numbers were heartily enjoyed.

Jimmy Finley, Station WGM's exclusive and extremely popular baritone and pianist, supplemented the program by Mrs. Taylor with a number of piano and vocal selections. His songs included the ever-popular "In My Home Town" and it was well received, judging from the number of telephone calls for "repeats" and other selections.

WGM "Very Clear."

Station WGM: Dear Sir—I heard WGM last night very clear. Your station comes in very clear and I usually hear you every night.

Yours truly,
CARL MEYER,
47 Pearl St., Rochester, N. Y.

Georgia's Glee Club Plays Here Twice Saturday

Atlanta Artists of Crayon, Voice and Instrument on Program.

The University of Georgia Glee and instrumental club will give two performances in Atlanta Saturday, a matinee at 3 o'clock and the night performance at 8:30.

Many new features have been added to the program this year, among them "Say It With Crayon," in which Sheffield and Whitley, both Atlanta boys, are starred. They illustrate the music as played by the famous Georgia Bulldog orchestra. A comedy sketch entitled "The Lion Hunt" is said to be the best ever produced by the club. They have represented the world's oldest state university. At a recent performance held in Athens this act took the audience by storm and called for many encores.

Roy Jones, of College Park, president and leader, has developed a club this year that would do credit to any institution. He has been aided by Brooks Johnson, John Tanner and Harry Mabry, leaders and assistant leaders of the club. Minor Wheaton, of Griffin, is star of the last act, singing in Spanish, "O Sole Mio" and "The Toreador Song" from Carmen. "That's How I Believe in You," "I'll Forget You," "Roses of Picardy" and "At Dawning" are other solo numbers.

The Bulldog orchestra will again be featured. Members of this organization are Roy Jones, Harry Mabry, Tony Randall, Charlie Anderson, L. H. Hilton, Dep Kirkland, Jack Taylor and Morgan Sellers.

This is the eleventh annual tour. Others who will make the trip are: James K. Harper, business manager; Lloyd Fickling, assistant business manager; Joe Bennett, advertising manager; C. R. Anderson, F. Elliott Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the United States treasury, who was in conference with representatives of France, Britain and Belgium at the Quai d'Orsay, informed the conferees that America could not, however, accept the suggestion that the value of German ships seized by the United States during the war be deducted from the Rhine bill. ### Fine Arts Club Will Have May Party at "Woodhaven"

The loveliest event of the early spring will be the garden-party which the Fine Arts Club will give on May 1 in the charming terrace garden at "Woodhaven," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Foster Maddox, on Peachtree road. The event, which is the season's program of this delightful club, which has made each meeting one of distinction and beauty. Mrs. Spiker has arranged charming dances for this event and Enrico Leide's wonderful orchestra will give exquisite music in this setting so beautiful to see and lovely to enjoy. A stage, painted green, in order that it may blend perfectly with the grass and background of hedge and trees, will focus the attention of the audience on the graceful and ethereal dances.

The Maddox garden is one of the loveliest of the many beautiful gardens which make Atlanta homes unusual. It is arranged in terraces, each of which is planted with gay blossoms, offering a succession of rich bloom through the season. At the foot of the last terrace lies the lovely fountain and reflecting pool, set round with ornamental shrubs and beautiful statues from Italy. Climbing roses lend their bloom and beauty to the garden.

Gladioli Exhibit Of College Park Woman's Club

The floral committee of the College Park Woman's club held its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. D. Couch.

Mrs. P. J. Haden, chairman of the committee, presided at the business session. A most gratifying report was heard from the treasurer of the committee and a most interesting and instructive paper on chrysanthemum culture, written by Mrs. Oscar Palmour, was read. The time for the midsummer flower show was set for about the middle of August, the exact date depending on the season and maturity of flowers. A motion to add a gladioli exhibit was passed. These entries will be composed of one dozen spikes which may be of one color and variety or several. Perfection of flowers and beauty of color will be the chief considerations. Those expecting to enter this contest should plant bulbs between the first and tenth of May. At least two dozen bulbs should be planted to allow for selection. Prizes will be awarded.

The date for the chrysanthemum show was set for October 17. The contest will be for the best collection of twelve blooms, four varieties, three of a kind. The following early maturing varieties were suggested as being the best to grow for this contest: Yellow—Marigold and Rob Pulling. Whites—Christi Mathewson, Titanic and Oconto. Pinks—Pink Vermont and Pacific Supreme. Blues—Nagirene.

Following the business meeting a pleasant social hour was enjoyed. The parlors were elaborately decorated with quantities of daffodils and other dainty spring flowers. Delicious refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jamieson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Kaul, of Birmingham, Ala., have also made reservations at the Terrace and will arrive here a few days before the opera begins.

Judge and Mrs. William Bailey Lamar will be among the opera visitors who will be welcomed with the usual enthusiasm and pleasure their presence in Atlanta always creates. They, too, will be at the Georgian Terrace.

Among the Floridians who are coming over for the opera week will be the Misses Mary and Jessie Darby of Jacksonville; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hoyt, Mrs. E. H. Rowe, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Benedict, all from Jacksonville, and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kellum, from Fort Meyers, Fla.

From North Carolina come Mrs. Mrs. L. C. Dickson, of Charlotte, and from South Carolina comes Mrs. F. H. Schofield, from Mullins.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Bonn Allen, from Buford, Ga., will be in a group of people from that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. McLean, of Cartersville, Ga., and New York city are coming. Also from New York will come Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glynn and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Forbes.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Charlton Hudson, from Columbus, Ga., will be among the opera visitors. Mrs. Hudson, who was Miss Edith Folwell, of Philadelphia, will be much entertained during her Atlanta visit.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Herbert will come from Nashville.

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Perrino, from Havana, Cuba, will also come this year, as they always have, and they, too, will be much feted while in Atlanta.

Former Governor Thomas Kilby and Mrs. Kilby, of Alabama, will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Wellborn at their home on West Fourteenth street.

Among the opera stars who will be at the Terrace and who have already written for reservations are Luciente Bori, Gigli, Julia Chausen, Edmund Roth and Martineau and Edward Ziegfeld, who is administrative secretary of the Metropolitan Opera company.

The usual teas will be given in the delightful terrace fashion of former years on the Terrace balconies each matinee day during the opera and are anticipated with the usual amount of social interest.

Careers of Noted Southern Women Are Described In Second Volume Written by Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier

Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier has written a second volume of "Representative Women of America," which will appear from the press next week. In the volume are sketches of southern women who are among the most distinguished, not only in America but in Europe as well. In the group are seen Mrs. Collier in the center. The upper small cut is that of the Marquise Agnes de Courtiron, of Paris, the daughter of the Prince de Polignac, who offered his sword to Robert E. Lee for the Confederate cause. The lower cut is the late Mrs. William D. Grant in her younger days. In the large oval is Mrs. J. O. Wynn, of Atlanta.

BY MARTHA GOODE ANDERSON.

The second volume of "Representative Women of the South," written by Mrs. Bryan Wells Collier, and which contains sketches of the most distinguished women in America, will appear next week in time for the D. A. R. convention in Atlanta.

The charm and sympathy with which Mrs. Collier has presented the subjects of these sketches makes this volume a notable contribution to the volumes related to the women of the south. It is of amazing interest to see how far-reaching the lives of the southern women gathered in the volume reach—for here we find the charming Marquise de Courtiron, the Princess Achille Marat, who live in France and yield influence and distinction, side by side with the most notable and prominent women within the southern states.

When volume one in this series appeared some time ago it was most eagerly awaited and now that the announcement of the second volume is ready Mrs. Collier has inquiries from every part of America and from Europe.

In the second volume the scope of the author's work has touched all the shores of America and the continent across the sea.

When the Marquise Agnes de Courtiron, of Paris, read of the first volume she became deeply interested in this biographical work of the south. Her father, the Prince de Polignac, when a young man, offered his sword to the confederacy which was accepted. General Lee gave him a command in the beginning of the war and for four years he served with courage the cause which he espoused. In appreciation of this loyalty to our south Mrs. Collier extended to the young Parisian Marquise an invitation to be in the second volume of her historical work. The Marquise joyfully accepted, sending the charming picture seen here with the request that her father's sketch be included.

Another heroine from royal families abroad is Princess Achille Marat, the daughter of Colonel Byrd C. Willis, of Fredericksburg, Va., and his wife, Mary Lewis, who was a niece of General Washington. Prince Achille Marat is a descendant of Napoleon Bonaparte. Among the American celebrities of national importance who appear in the volume we find Mrs. William Ruffin Cox, who was Kate Hamilton Cabel, of Richmond, said to be the most beloved woman in Virginia. She is the only woman who has ever succeeded herself for the third term in office as she served for 12 years as national president of the Colonial Dames of America.

Among other distinguished American women of whom sketches are printed in this volume are Mrs. Robert B. Hogan, executive feature, of the Order of the Crown of America and also the president of the Daughters of the Baron of Runnymeade and who is a lineal descendant of Alfred the Great; Mrs. Allen McKaskell Kinbrough, of Mississippi, who devoted her life to the preservation of Beaufort, the home of the president of the lost cause, who were her neighbors; Miss Mary Hillard Hinton, who is registrar for life of the Order of the Crown of America and the Daughter of the Baron of Runnymeade.

The preface to this charming and valuable volume has been written by Dr. Bryan Wells Collier and is a tribute of hearty and sentiment to the women of the south.

Among the women of Atlanta whose stories and whose pictures embellish these pages are Mrs. William D. Grant and her daughter, Mrs. John Marshall Slaton, Mrs. J. M. High, Mrs. Charles Davis, Mrs. Sam D. Jones, Mrs. Ray Wylie, Mrs. Francis Brown Chase, Mrs. George M. Hope, Mrs. William L. Barnes, Mrs. George Hoyt, Mrs. Howard McCall, Mrs. Edward H. Barnes, Mrs. Shepard Foster,

Smith Club Honors High School Girls

The girls of the senior classes in the college preparatory classes of the Girls' High School, Washington seminary, and the North Avenue Presbyterian church, were honored at an all-around "college" party, on Saturday afternoon when they were entertained by the Atlanta Smith Club club at the home of Mrs. Charles Curry, in Ansley Park.

The rooms were decorated to carry out the idea of St. Patrick's day, and various stunts and favors during the afternoon. The spirit of college fellowship prevailed and the informality of the gathering was its most attractive feature.

The party was given with the idea of interesting high school girls in college life and especially in Smith. The officers of the club are Mrs. Albert Blanchard, president; Mrs. Charles Curry, vice president; Mrs. Paul Gaylord, treasurer, and Miss Gwendolyn Glendinning, secretary.

Many parties are being planned for Mrs. Cochran, who was Mrs. Isbill's room-mate at Coulter college and has a very charming personality.

Miss Hatcher Outlines Plans For Educational Program

Miss Orie Latham Hatcher, of Richmond, Va., president of the Southern Women's Educational Alliance and chairman of the department of education of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, presented Monday evening at the chamber of commerce before the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Atlanta, and representatives of many other related groups, the program of the national federation. She spoke in part as follows:

Reasons for Program.
"The reasons for the educational program of the National Federation are the most natural in the world. Any new organization which ventures to claim space today in the badly overcrowded network of organizations in which society is struggling, should be required to show the specific distinctive contribution which it can make and will make to community, state or national betterment in one direction or another. National organizations worth the trouble of creation and maintenance should prove a really national contribution to society, and the advance of civilization within its territory and each should be able to prove its task, one which grows essentially out of its nature, its basis and personnel. Now, a national federation of business and professional women, or as we may well say, a national federation of business women—since business is growing steadily more professional, and professional people more business like—must in the very nature of the case make business women as a type or social order better assets not only to themselves, but to society in general and to business. How are they going to bring this about,—by finding out the best preparation for business and seeing to it by all friendly persuasive co-operative means that girls coming into business receive such preparation and that those already in business without adequate preparation receive all possible help in supplementing their deficiencies.

"This is just what the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is doing. Last spring the chairman of the national education committee addressed a letter to each club and state president and to each club and state chairman of education, requesting that thoughtful consideration of the subject of the adequate education of women for business be promoted in advance of the convention and asking the following questions: 'What is your club's valuation of existing facilities for business education, locally and throughout the country? What scholarships and loans does your club administer and how?'

"At the annual convention in Chattanooga last July the business women of the country voted overwhelmingly that they should stand for a high school education as a minimum foundation for business and adopted a program of interpretation and co-operation which is needed for such wide publicity and persuasiveness for this high school standard. There is no blind intuition that the standard can be enforced overnight at all. Nor is there any idea that every girl regardless of mentality should be forced to take a high school education—it is only that she should not go today into what is known as business unless she does take one. Moreover, the federation expects to help the capable, ambitious girl who lacks this education and is financially handicapped in trying to secure it. Already a large proportion of the clubs and some of the state federations have provided scholarships and loan funds for this purpose and other clubs nearly all over the country are developing such aids very, very encouragingly, rapidly—all focusing their aid on the high school education at present.

Co-operation the Key.
"Of course the business women cannot accomplish this great task alone, although they are the logical leaders in the movement and the fact that they furnish at least the underpinning of business life over the world and most of the patronage of business schools gives them tremendous authority in defining their standards for education and in asking the manifold co-operation which is needed for success. The girl herself, her parents, that very strategic person, the employer, civic and welfare workers, heads of business schools, civic and economic forces of almost countless kinds, have their part to play in making the standard a reality, and it is for every club to take its community as its territory and see that the standard is understood and promoted by every thinking group to be found there.

National Committee.
"The national committee on education has concerned itself primarily with the co-operation of national groups whose interests were in any way bound up with the quality of the preparation of women for business and from the beginning has worked with the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools, as also with many other groups. At Christmas time the committee held a joint meeting with the board of governors of the National Association of Accredited Commercial Schools and it was declared at that time by the president of that association that an entrance requirement of high school graduation was a goal towards which business schools might work if a sufficient amount and variety of co-operation was provided these schools by other organizations, while the effort was being made. It is for the Business and Professional Women's clubs of the country to secure and offer the needed amount of co-operation towards this end. It was also agreed at the conference mentioned that a selected number of private business schools would this year report to business women's clubs in their communities, capable girls who were applying for admission to business training without having had a high school education. These clubs are then to work for whatever means will make the high school education possible.

"It should perhaps be explained that the national committee favors a complete high school education in any case, even if some of the commercial education must be included, but that it believes the four years of broad foundation the wisest investment, wherever by any means possible.

"The fact that the educational program of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has from the beginning been recognized as vitally related to national problems of the civic, economic and educational sort is attested by the personnel of the very active advisory committee which has from the beginning worked with the federation in the shaping of its educational policies, so that all sound interests, whether related to industry, human development or many others affected, shall be represented.

Miss Jane Van De Vrede, president of the Atlanta club, presided at the meeting.

Atlantans Will Attend Wedding In Pelham, Ga.

Mrs. Hand will entertain at luncheon today at "Highland Villa," in honor of the out-of-town guests.

Mr. Venable Honors Navy Officials.

THE VITAL FLAME

BY MAY CHRISTIE

A Stirring Serial of Primitive Passions

CHAPTER XVII.
Out of the Past.

Then, with a desperate effort to placate him:

"I did my very best in the card-room, Jose. You said at the time how well I'd done."

He nodded, grudgingly.

"You're a wonder, when you really try! But lately it seems as though you'd got religion. You'll be wanting to go into a convent next!"

"And leave you? I—I couldn't!"

He could hear her and still treat her as if she were a stranger. He looked back to him. Jose was a double-faced rogue, but he had hypnotized Deirdre. And he realized his power.

He changed his tack now.

"Jake and Andy and I have fixed up a little job for you, Niece. I like, refined," he chuckled nastily. "You know the Beau Regard hotel in Biarritz? The Countess of Blankshire is stopping there, and Jake has engaged the room next to hers, on your behalf—he can't take it for himself, because the Countess is so terrified of burglars that she pays the manager to put only ladies on that floor—and I want you to go on over and get friendly with her. Deirdre, you can do it perfectly, so don't start jawing. Wear the quiet brown 'transformation' and pose as a titled French widow. You'll pull it off all right!"

He patted her reassuringly on her bruised arm, and she gave a little cry of pain.

"If I don't pull it off, I'll get five years in 'quod, maybe," she murmured.

"The police 'nd take up everything. Sometimes, Jose, I think Scotland Yard's watching me, and just waiting, waiting—"

"Nonsense, girl, don't lose your nerve! You remember the last time you were of French nobility, when you bored the hole in the wall into the English maid's dressing room, and chloroformed the maid who was asleep in a chair, for fear she'd wake, and cleared the whole place out?"

And he chuckled appreciatively. Her dog-like passion for him merely bored him, but he turned it to good account. He fully realized how able was this woman's skill in sleight of hand!

Deirdre drew him on a divan that was covered with multi-colored cushions, and slipped a hand about his neck.

"Listen, Jose. I have a plan!"

She rubbed her cheek against his olive-tinted one. Her voice was low and very much in earnest. "I've been round the managers and agents, and they're all on the lookout for a clever dancing couple, as you and I used to be, and we could easily land a job on the heels, at—say—thirty quid a week. Then, hurriedly, seeing his face hardened:

"I'd sleep easier at nights, Jose, if you and I were running straight! Time and again I wake up, all of a tremble, thinking the 'teas are here."

"What! So that's why you take the sleeping powders? Fine excuse, my dear!" he sneered.

She flushed sensitively.

"I give you up, Jose, honest I would, if I had an easy conscience! And—and I love you so—and I'd kill me if the police were to put you away—or maybe catch me first and look me away from you. I—we're awfully dancers, Jose—we could draw down big money. No one can get near our class."

"Shut up, you fool!" the man said, irritably, pushing her away, and rising. "I'm after bigger fish than your beastly jobs. If you don't do as I tell you, don't be surprised one fine morning to find me gone—for good—or maybe I should say 'for evil'! And he chuckled grimly.

Deirdre buried her face in the garish cushions, with a heart too sad for tears.

"How beautiful you look tonight, Marcella!"

Warwick Tremaine leant across the table in the crowded grill-room of the restaurant Marcella had selected, and gazed appreciatively at his lady-love.

She had been rather silent, and "distracted" throughout dinner, but of course the constant hanging of the orchestra had prevented talk. (Marcella had chosen this place partly for that very reason had he only known it.)

She tried to smile at him, a wan attempt.

"Flatterer!" he retorted.

"Someone else had used those very words to her, hardly more than a week ago. How happy she had been! And how wonderful if the man opposite could have been transformed into that fascinating, handsome 'someone else'."

"What a painful thing love was! Really suffered far beyond its compensating pleasure!"

She must drag Miles Holden from her mind and heart.

Warwick was talking eagerly. Something about cars. She nodded at intervals, as if taking in the gist of everything he said although her thoughts turned painfully and persistently to that faithless 'someone' who had wrought such havoc to her peace of mind.

What was Miles doing at this moment? Where was he?

"We'll go for a trial spin tomorrow, shall we?" Warwick was saying. "I have a differential, but I'm sure you'll love it."

Marcella stared.

"The little car I'm giving you," said he, explaining.

"Oh, no, I couldn't. I mean—it's much too soon—I'm stammered. She scanned the big room quickly, hoping to light on a brand-new topic to distract his mind. Her gaze rested on a yellow-haired woman who, seated alone at a distant table, had her elbows stuck out before her, and her two hands propping up her chin, in an attitude of hopeless dejection.

There was something familiar in the woman's pose.

"Why, that's a girl I met on board-ship. Deirdre was her name. Poor soul, how miserable she looks!" cried Marcella in quick pity. Then, to her companion:

"I'd like to run over and talk to her for a moment. I'm sorry for her."

Warwick Tremaine's gaze followed Marcella.

"The blonde woman at the table over there?"

"Yes. Awfully down on her luck, poor creature."

The man rose at once. He had already paid the bill, and—

"I'll get my hat and stick from the coatroom, and meet you outside," he said hastily, in a queer, strained voice, staring at the yellow-haired woman with a growing conviction.

"All right, be . . . Good God! . . . could it be . . . I shouldn't be more than a moment," said Marcella.

She did not see that Warwick Tremaine's face had turned a sickly green, and that beads of perspiration had mantled on his forehead.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. ## Confessions of a Debutante

BY RUTH AGNES ABELING

INSTALLMENT NO. 58.

A QUESTION.

WHO? WHO IN THE STORY?

I ran away from my fiancé, Jonathan Grey, rich and dandy, to the arms of Larry, a man who danced in his wife's arms.

Mrs. Larry, shows me that if my wife of action and becomes my friend. I return home, my engagement announced.

My fiancé, who staged my coming-out party and whom I never could be friends. While I am about the girl whom Jonathan hired to act as my substitute at my engagement party because he feared I might not appear. Arrested for shop lifting, she involves me and shows her ring which duplicates management.

I am arrested with her. Mrs. Larry takes her lawyer and goes into court with me. The girl is unrepentant. A stranger takes her case. I am released. The girl gets a light sentence.

Friday, January 26.

"I want only to say hel to you, to wish you well and say good-bye."

"Oh!" I gasped, reaching for his hand.

But he was gone, halfpiped through the crowd and disappeared.

"Once more a vision of paradise and then!"

"Good morning! I hadn't expected to find you so early in the day."

He stood, hat in hand, on the sidewalk before us.

As I voiced a confused good morning, I noticed that an odd expression lingered for a moment on Mrs. Larry's face then she, too, greeted him with a degree of confusion.

"Send your chauffeur along a ride with us," I heard. Mrs. Larry said. Jonathan seemed to welcome the suggestion.

As we drove along, the four of us, each constrainedly avoiding mention of the courthouse and reason for being there, I wondered why the appearance of Jonathan and the mention of his name affected Mrs. Larry so.

And I wondered why Jonathan wup and asked so early.

"Shall I drop you both here?"

Mrs. Larry had pulled the car to the curb in front of my home. I wasn't surprised at the gruff of his voice. I think I must have unconsciously expected some such thing and I realized suddenly that it had been search for me which he had him to the courthouse.

"Surely!" I said with a lighter I by no means felt. And while Jonathan waited for me at the door I tried to tell Mrs. Larry a little of my gratitude for all she had done for me.

"It's nothing! Nothing at all!" was her characteristic response, "and my dear, I'm not a child."

Just before the car started to move she took my hand, leaned over and looked intently into my face.

"Poor confused little kiddie!" he said softly.

"Jonathan, dear! You're just in time for lunch!" Mama held out dainty hand and Jonathan took a tip of her fingers. She had come downstairs into the hall just as we entered the house.

And so Jonathan was to lunch with us! Lunch served by those maids he had spared to us!

We had never gone into the detail of it, but I knew well enough that mama was running bills upon him against the time when I became Mrs. Grey and could settle them. The announcement of my engagement to the richest bachelor in town gave our credit a new lease on life.

Even the trades people were willing to gamble on my mercenary soul! I wondered if I reflected that sort of thing and had a sudden impulse to rush to the mirror and search my face. I felt that I must be imprinted with dollar signs from chin to forehead and from ear to ear!

Else has been out all morning. Have you seen her?" Mama asked. I shook my head.

"I think I'm going to have to take her in hand. She's getting unruly. Girls are impossible now-a-days!" mother coquetted.

Left alone in the living room shortly after lunch Jonathan came to the settee and sat behind me.

"You have set a date in February for our wedding, haven't you?" He asked.

"Yes." The question startled me.

"Do you think—" he fumbled among the words.

"What is it?" I asked.

"Do you think you could change it? Would it inconvenience you too much?" The question came hurriedly. (Copyright, 1923, for The Constitution.)

New York, March 19.—An early advance in the cotton market on relatively firm cables and an unfavorable weather map, was followed by reactions under realizing or liquidation. Old crop positions were relatively easy with May selling off from 31.15 to 31.11 and closing at 31.11, or 14 points net lower. October sold at 27.10 on the early advance of 25 points net higher and reacted to 26.84, closing at 26.84. The general market closed barely steady net 15 points lower to 4 points higher.

The market opened steady to 22 points higher. Heavy rains were reported in eastern belt sections with storms in the southwest over Sunday. These weather reports followed by numerous complaints of delayed farm work and new crop positions led to the early advance which carried the general up 13 to 22 points net higher. Old crop months met high resistance. Old crop months met high resistance. Old crop months met high resistance.

May liquidation was a feature and showed the maximum loss at the close while the continued weakness of old crops brought out a little more realizing in new crop deliveries during late trading. The reaction in these deliveries also was promoted by reports that the cold weather in western and central belt regions would probably reduce the number of bolls and that some farmers in the central belt were already cancelling orders for seed.

Last prices were within a point or two of the lowest. Private advice received here from Fall River was expected there as a result of the weather demands but there was evidence by more or less nervousness over the outlook among Texas where cotton business was restricted by delays in the wire service resulting from the storm. Port receipts today 11,016; United States port stocks 65,500; Exports 1,328, making 5,881,111 so far this season.

PERSISTENT SELLING
OFFSETS WEATHER EFFECT.

New Orleans, March 19.—Abnormally cold weather and much rain over the belt put the cotton market higher for a while but persistent selling met these gains and gradually prices fell until they stood at the lowest of the day, showing net losses of 3 to 10 points. In the early trading the weather carried prices 16 to 32 points higher than the close of Saturday. To the new high level for the season of 26.79 cents per pound for October. Other positions did not make new highs. May rose to 30.87. In the late trading May fell off to 30.61 and closed at that figure. October traded down to 26.40 and closed at 26.45. At all stages of the session October was the strongest month.

According to reports reaching this market, rains were heavy nearly everywhere in the belt, with temperatures as low as 10 degrees above zero were reported in the northwestern section of the belt, while temperatures far from freezing visited the earliest portions of Texas where cotton already is up and still colder weather was expected for some sections. Many telegrams from Texas claimed that all young cotton was killed and expressed doubt whether any seed recently planted would germinate.

Some of the selling of the day was done on the theory that while some damage had been done to a small percentage of the crop, it would be more than offset by the benefit to the soil by freezing and soaking and by the probably winter killing of the boll weevil. Uncertainty over what to expect from the census bureau tomorrow morning in the way of final figures for this last season, increased offerings, and in the late trading considerable selling was done on the uneasiness over the mill strike situation at Fall River and on cablegrams from Manchester stating spinners were considering closing down two weeks in April, on top of the short time in March and the regular holiday at Easter.

FIRM TONE SEEN
IN BOND MARKETRail Mortgages Continue Dull and Irregular—Small Advances Noted in Va-Carolina Chemicals.

New York, March 19.—While small losses were recorded by many of the grade securities, the general tone of today's bond market was firm. Rising prices in stocks made themselves felt also in the lists of these companies.

United States government bonds continued heavy, the active issues losing from 2 to 12 cents to $100. Foreign government obligations, particularly European issues, were in good demand.

With few exceptions, railroad mortgages continued dull and irregular. Northern Pacific refunding 5s losing 1-3-8 and Virginia railway 5s dropping a point. Atlantic Coast Line 4s advanced 1-8. A rise of 3-8 in Santa Fe 4s was carried to 100. A new bid and advances of a point or more were recorded by Virginia Carolina Chemical 7-1-2 with warrants, and Bonner Steel refunding 7s.

The outstanding weak spot of 2-8-8 were the outstanding weak spot of 2-8-8.

Total sales, par value, $311,706,000.

NEGRO SLAYER SHOT TO DEATH BY POSSE

New Orleans, March 19.—Willie Johnson, negro, was shot and instantly killed by a posse today near Bogalusa, La., after being surrounded in a swamp by a posse of several hundred white men. The negro had been pursued since last Monday when he shot and killed Robert Sellers, state conservation agent, at Wagon, La. Several days later he broke through a posse at Bogalusa, La., after shooting and wounding Deputy Sheriff Anatole Ayo, of La Fourche parish.

Your Fortune Told A Home And Happiness Or Rent And Regrets

You will have one or the other. Tell me which and I will tell your fortune.

Here Is The Way It Works

When You Pay Rent at $60 a Month

Nothing left but receipts. Not even the flowers your wife planted. The roses must be left behind. The garden you worked and enriched bears fruit for another. Your chicken runs are gone when you go.

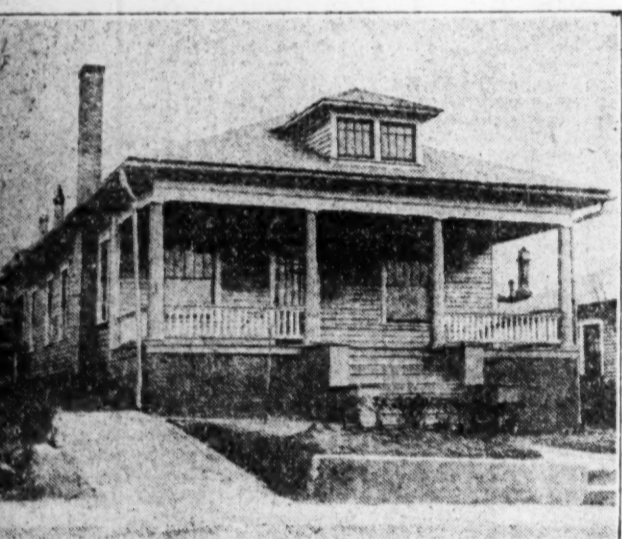

You only have left the dismal prospect of moving with the expense and a broken back for your wife.

Your good fortune does not end with the purchase of a home.

In thirty years' experience we find that not only ninety per cent of purchasers pay out and get clear title to their homes, but with many of them it is only the beginning of good fortune.

The day that your home is bought the die of fate is cast in your favor. You have started on the road which leads to prosperity and happiness. Of course you will buy a home.

Here is one you will like in charming Capitol View, with paved streets, car line, churches, schools, Masonic temple and a delightful community.

ATTRACTIVE HOUSE ON FAIRBANKS STREET

This is an attractive and convenient house with 6 rooms and bath, including living room with French doors to dining room, double acting door to kitchen, two bedrooms, bath and sleeping porch, with a closet for each bedroom, pantry opening from kitchen, unusually large latched back porch, very large veranda, electric lights, gas, hot and cold water, floors stained and finished, walls tinted, house painted with three coats of best paint. The rooms are large, with 10-foot ceilings, beautiful oak mantels, tiles and grates. There is galvanizing from guttering entirely around the house. The lot is 50x130 feet to an alley, with concrete street, sidewalk, side drive, tile yard walk and garage.

All for $5,800—payable $200 cash and $55 a month, with no mortgage to assume.

Atlanta's Biggest Business

Superintendent Willis A. Sutton says that Atlanta's educational facilities are inadequate. He declares that our children are entitled to the best—a statement with which we will all agree—but that they cannot get it under present conditions. Therefore we must greatly enlarge our present equipment.

He makes a plea to the business men of the city for their interest in this program of expansion.

His appeal is well directed. For training its children is Atlanta's most important business. Building up the city's schools to a plane of highest efficiency is a constructive undertaking which may well enlist the enthusiastic co-operation of her far-sighted and capable men of affairs.

The need is vital.

It cannot be doubted that Superintendent Sutton's appeal will meet a prompt and hearty response.

RIGHT TO SEARCH CARS IS UPHELD

Judge Barrett Rules Pro-curing of Search Warrant by Prohibition Officers Not Necessary.

Macon, Ga., March 19.—(Special.) The right of prohibition enforcement officers to search automobiles for liquor, without previously procuring a search warrant, was upheld today in United States district court here by Judge William H. Barrett, who is presiding.

The decision was in the cases of George Coffin and C. H. Brecheau, of Indianapolis, whose attorneys petitioned for the return of the $500 cash bonds which were deposited in each case when the defendants were arrested in September of last year at Barnesville. The petition was denied.

Lawyers of the Indianapolis men have filed a petition asking for the return of the two automobiles seized in the Barnesville raid which will be heard later in the week.

"The opinion that officers cannot search automobiles without warrants," said Judge Barrett is due to erroneous information that has appeared in the press. "It is true that Judge Sibley differed with me," he said in answer to a question from Attorney W. O. Cooper. "But he differed with me when the erroneous statement as to my former ruling appeared in the press."

"In a recent decision handed down by me, an officer has the right to search an automobile or any place where he has reason to believe a crime has or is being committed. An officer may smell, see, or feel whiskey in an automobile. Unreasonable search is the menace against which the fourth amendment of the constitution and the search warrant statutes protect. Reasonable search is always permissible."
